NEARER REVOLT IN AUSTRIA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 15.—Reports received at Amsterdam from the German frontier say that furious rioting is going on in Vienna, according to the Daily Sketch. Throughout Austria the outbreaks approach the size of a revolution, the advisers say. The political crisis has been increased because of the outlook for immediate peace being bad.

HE ENJOYS LIFE IN LONDON TOWN

Private Milton H. Canfield Writes Interesting Letter of Life in England—Is Member of Aero Squadron.

Private Milton H. Canfield, a brother of Mayor Canfield, has written an interesting letter of his life in England. The letter was written on May 8, but has just been received by Leon Jensen, of Stock & Cordis, where Private Canfield was employed before joining the colors. The letter reads as follows:

I received your letter yesterday and was more than glad to hear from you. It takes a long time for mail to reach us, your last letter was a month in coming. I received a letter from my brother April 30, which was the first letter I have received since I came over. I have been here two months now, but the time has passed very quickly. I like England very much, but I would like to go on to France and get into active service.

We are at an English flying field, getting more training. I am doing the same work I did at Mineola. I received some Freeman's two weeks ago which were sent on from Mineola and read about the highway crossing accident, although the news was old, I enjoyed reading the papers through. I received a letter from Geo. Tietjen on Sunday, and was glad to hear from him. All the boys here are feeling fine; since I came over I have gained 12 pounds. It is a great country. Every other night I am able to get a pass from 5 till 10:45 and every other Sunday I have off.

I was at London one Sunday and expect to go again soon. It is a great place but nowhere as lively as N. Y. There are a great many old buildings there. They have a fine subway which runs out to where we are camped. The American Y. M. C. A. Eagle Hut is a great place. I had breakfast, dinner and supper there. Had pancakes and honey for breakfast, which was quite a treat. They had a very nice concert there in the evening. We have no Y. M. C. A. in this camp but have a church Army (English), which is about the same thing, also two English cantons where we buy tea, cake and a few other things. Almost every other thing we need we can get in the stores, except candy, which is very scarce here.

There are two good movie theaters here and about three miles from here there is a very large one. I was there one night to a play, musical comedy, which was fine. Last week was vaudeville, which was very good. Can get a good seat for one shilling three pence, equal to 30 cents in our money, so you see they are much cheaper here than in the U. S.

Our squadron had a dance Friday night in the Council House and it was a great success. We have some good singers and amateur actors in our squad. They are putting on some acts at the Hippodrome, another theater near here, every night this week. Last week the English crowd gave a nice concert in the shop where I am, so you see there is a great deal of pleasure with the work and the time passes quickly.

I went to church one night and met a number of nice people; one party by the name of Palmer invited some other fellows and myself to their house to spend the evening and had a fine supper for us (some feed). We had a fine time. They gave us the privileges of their house to come in at any time we wished. The English people are all very nice and we all feel very sorry for them, they standing the blunt of the war. I do hope that the U. S. will soon be able to throw their forces into the fray and settle the Kaiser and his crown forever.

I suppose you all bought Liberty Bonds. I took a $50 one; could not afford any more, as it takes quite some money to go around and for extras we need, besides I wish while here to see all that I can see.

Well, I guess the censor will get tired reading, so will close for this time. Give my kindest regards to all who inquire for me.

Yours friend,
MILTON H. CANFIELD.

Artillerists Busy in Alps.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Amsterdam, June 15.—Artillery drilling is taking place along the Alpine section of the Italian front, the Austrian war office announces, according to a dispatch from Vienna today. The big gun fighting, however, was described as moderate.

U-BOATS STILL LUCK OFF COAST

Taking No Chances Against Armed Vessels but Adopt Camouflage Tactics Familiar on the Other Side.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
An Atlantic Port, June 15.—Bringing with her the most thrilling story of a fight between an armed merchant vessel and a German U-boat that has ever reached this port, the British steamer Keemun docked here today after a running fight with a U-boat that mounted five inch guns and was as fast as the Keemun. The Keemun was attacked off the Virginia coast and escaped without being damaged.

With positive evidence that at least two German U-boats are still operating off the Atlantic coast, the United States naval patrol doubled its efforts to run them down today. Following the escape of several vessels after running fights with the raiders, one arrival at this port today told a story of the use of camouflage by at least one of the submarines, which was rigged up look like a freighter.

A thrilling story of a twelve hour running fight between the British steamship Arthur and a submarine appearing like a 200 foot cargo carrier was brought to port by Captain George Aitken, commander of the steamer. The Arthur is one of the few armed craft attacked to date by the Germans. The Germans showed no desire to come within range of the vessel's guns, though the sea shark trailed her for twelve hours. Shells and depth bombs were used against the U-boat by Captain Aitken without effect and the submarine shelled the steamer for hours, finally giving up the chase.

The story of the camouflage was told by the captain of the Norwegian steamer Viland, who was detained aboard the U-boat several hours after his vessel had been sunk. He said the submersible had iron bulkheads three or four feet high around her decks with an elevated bow standing high out of the water, and appearing like a 200 foot cargo carrier at a distance. One of the crew said that lunches were held on deck at night to celebrate the sinkings of the day.

PARIS SAVED; STALEMATE AGAIN

New Attacks Expected But "European War Experts" Believe Further Important German Gains Improbable.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 15.—Paris is safe. The fourth German attempt to break the Allied line has ended in failure.

The Germans were unable to renew their attacks on the Montdidier-Oise front (the scene of their latest offensive) although there has been local fighting and heavy bombardments. European war experts are confident that the German rush has been stopped all along the line. The French expect new attacks, but are ready to meet them, no matter where they may fall.

There was a new outbreak of artillery fighting on the Picardy front, in the sector of Riazard Wood, while the reciprocal cannonading over the Villers-Coterets and Chateau Thierry has continued.

Not only do the Allies hold the upper hand on the land but their superiority in the air is felt everywhere. Allied combat machines are daily beating the German above the four great fighting zones and devastating raids are being carried out methodically far behind the German lines. Twelve German airplanes were sent down by French airmen in one day while two captive balloons, that were being used for observation purposes were destroyed.

On Thursday night bombing squadrons on French machines made a raid on German cantonments and military works dropping nearly twenty tons of high explosives. Much damage was done.

ENEMY IS ACTIVE ON MARINES FRONT

By Telegram to The Freeman.

With the American army at the Marne, June 14—(Night)—This afternoon the Germans opened a concentrated bombardment against the American position at Triangle Farm, immediately northwest of Chateau Thierry, on the Marne front.

There was no infantry attack. The enemy today used captured French aeroplanes to fly over the American positions for bombing and machine gunning the United States troops.

Paris Welcomes Doughboys.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 15.—Members of the American colony met and cheered the first trainload of American wounded arriving from the front. The doughboys, where were only slightly wounded, grinned cheerfully from the windows of the coaches or from the steps of the crowded cars, where they were seated. Each hospital train was marked "U. S. A."

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

PRIVATE HERBERT A. DAVIS. Now somewhere in France, brother of Mrs. Martin Barringer of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Livingston have received word of the safe arrival of their son, John Roscoe Livingston, overseas.

J. Nicholas Stock, who is at Department Headquarters of the 153rd Depot Brigade at Camp Dix, N. J., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Stock, at 69 Spring street.

Dr. George H. Clark of Downs street has received his commission as lieutenant in the dental reserve corps and will report for duty within the next fifteen days.

Harry Rieser of 520 Delaware avenue, for several years a clerk in the National Uster County Bank, has resigned to take effect today and will enlist in the Naval reserve.

Mrs. E. B. Gardner of 203 Washington avenue, has received word of the safe arrival overseas of her son, Clarence Fromer. He enlisted over a year ago in Summit, N. J. He is a member of Amulance Company 33, 4th Division.

Mrs. H. Souders of 197 Washington avenue has received word of the safe arrival "somewhere in France" of her son, H. O. Souders. He enlisted in Kingston about a year ago in the Seventy-first Regiment and was later transferred to the 105th Infantry.

Four Kingston men left today to take a course in mechanical training to them for special war service for Uncle Sam. Walter Edgar Snyder of 100 O'Neil street; George Dittmar, 567 Broadway, and Ernest Arolan of 9 Wood street, entrained on a New York Central morning train for Cornell College, Ithaca. They went under a special call, as automobile mechanics. Leo Fennelly of 2 Crown street, left on a West Shore morning train for Syracuse University, under a special call, to take a course in telegraphy. They reported at the office of board 1 in the surrogate's office, Friday afternoon, received their instructions were inducted into the service, and presented with their comfort kits and Red Cross supplies.

Of course the trip is made by auto unless you prefer a six mile hike to a trolley where for 50 cents you ride about 12 miles to our destination, but we don't care for the walk. To take a truck. The country is beautiful now, everything bright green and those low, white stone houses with the red tile roofs are very picturesque. In fact, once you leave the sand of the camp behind you are in a very pretty part of the country.

The last time we were down we were refused admittance to the house of our friends, until we asked in return to tell how well we were, etc. Why we even have to ask for food at the table in French. That is it intended for French. But say, lead me to one of those French men's cards at the Stuyvesant and I'll say I would get some men for a little picnic near where the folks had friends out. It was too threatening, so delayed it. If we had dinner, tea, at about 3; a glass of wine at about 5, and stay for supper at 8, we insult the people. It seems to me they eat about six times a day and supper usually lasts from about 8 until after 10 o'clock.

Perhaps one of the girls can sure play the piano and we have some real American one-steps. The first time I heard her play was "Everyone is Doing It."

I must tell you of an incident which happened some time ago. It did not strike me so funny until Carl wrote to his friend in Bayonne and gave the letter to her minister to read in church for the amusement of the congregation and then he made some amusing remarks.

We were dining in one of the best restaurants in town and as usual received our bread allowance. You know how I eat bread. It was gone before I was half through the meal and of course I got no more. Next to us were two daughters and their mother, evidently. When they came in we noticed a package they carried and it seemed to amuse them very much. They hid it under the table and seemed to be having a great time.

Naturally we made some remarks about bread and tried to get more and failed. Then the woman tapped me on the back and asked me if we cared for some bread to eat with our "fromage." We were sort of green and could not at the time understand much French, so we sort of said yes, in a puzzled way.

Behold one of the girls produced the mysterious package and took out one of those two foot loaves of

ONE "SOMEWHERE" NO MORE A MYSTERY

Life in Camp And Town in the Girondo—One Way to Beat the Bread Rule in a Restaurant.

Camp de Souge, France, May 24.—I guess I sort of surprised you when you read the heading on this letter. Now I know it is too bad that I am ending your speculations by telling you where I am but then I think you have had enough fun out of it for a while. The latest is that we much suffering "war heroes," way back here 300 miles from the front, may tell the folks at home where we are located. You are quite right in thinking I am near Bordeaux for I am, about 20 kilometers away. And in my former letters when I spoke of going to the city I referred to Bordeaux. Now that you know where I am you will understand why I am anxious to get out and move up a bit nearer the front. I am getting tired of this slow stuff down here when there is something going on so close by. Well, I hope I may soon get a chance to move.

Yes, I have seen Mrs. Astor a number of times and she, you know is at the "Y" in town. Several times I have been served by her when I ate there. A few weeks ago I stopped in for a lunch before taking the truck back to camp and I had to laugh at her "egg sandwiches."—Well, I won't criticize, they weren't meant well, and weren't so very bad.

Just came back from chow and feel a little bit more hungry than before. Just as I came out of the mess hall I met the mess sergeant with a dish of nice, red, juicy strawberries. Oh, for about a pint of cream and a nice dish of fruit. I guess I will have to buy some after my day. There are quite a lot of berries raised here. Not great big ones like at home, but a much smaller fruit and very well flavored, too. They have been ripe for about ten days now and I saw a few in market.

Carl, "Jake" and I are living in a nice little room by ourselves just now. Principally because the other fellows raise so much devilry in the squad room just when we want to sleep. We have fixed up the room with pictures of our friends and some of those dreamy pictures from Judge and are quite at home now. How long it will last I know not.

The other night we were figured up when we would be over here six months and found on June 3 we would be entitled to one of those gold service stripes. You know what they are; a V shaped piece of gold braid on the left sleeve just above the wrist. If a fellow stays over here three or four years he will be a regular circus horse and then if he should chance to be so unfortunate as to acquire a couple of wound stripes on his other sleeve, oh, joy. Well, by the time you get this we will already, perhaps, have been decorated with the gold ones.

So the wets won. I knew Kingston never would go dry and you see what the woman vote did. Nothing. Perhaps you would be interested in a description of one of our Sunday's spent on pass in town where we have friends.

FIRST AMERICAN AERIAL RAID

Boches Get Sample of What Many Authorities Believe Will Be Big Factor in Winning Final Decision.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
France, June 14.—(Night).—A highly experienced American flyer who formerly was in the French army led the first party of all Americans who flew over the German lines and bombarded towns in the rear. There was a big jollification dinner at the flyers' headquarters tonight over the success of the first real American air raid on German territory and the flyers who took part and all returned safely at dusk, were given a great ovation.

A large group of American, French and British officers attached to daylight bombing squadrons, including some daring British flyers who have been raiding Rhine valley towns, saw our first bombing planes get away in their first flight.

"This is the first," said one of the British officers, "but I hope before long the Americans will be going over in great droves, showing the Boche what real bombing is like."

The huge bombing planes were wheeled out into the sunlight on a grassy plateau. The observers crawled underneath, and fastened the bombs on. They then climbed into their seats and gave their machine guns a final test. Many of these observers had made flights with British and French aviators over the German lines on bombing expeditions.

The pilots took their places, mechanics gave the propellers a whirl and the machines, with the commander of the unit leading, rolled around into a formation and looked just like so many sprinters toiling the mark and waiting for the starter's pistol.

Suddenly a motor farthest over began to sound louder than the rest and someone cried:

"They're off!" And they were. The first machine, carrying the commander, raced across the turf and rose upward and was off for the Hun lines. The others followed at short intervals, keeping the formation that had been decided upon.

It was late in the afternoon when the machines passed over the German lines and they drew only listless fire from the German anti-aircraft guns. But when they approached the railway junction, which was their objective, the German guns began plastering the sky with shrapnel.

The bombers slid down a few hundred meters, retaining the same formation they had started with. The commander, in the lead, sighted the railway station first. He fired a pistol as a signal and then the first bomb burst from his machine to its destination below. Others followed in rapid succession and soon the railway junction was shrouded with a smoke screen where the bombs were bursting on their objectives.

The American machines then circled and headed for their own line. A large bunch of German flyers appeared and several attempts were made to cut off some of our bombers. The attempts all failed and all returned safely.

French bread and cut off a generous portion. That had been the joke. It seems they had bread on the family bread card and bring it to the hotels so as to have plenty when they have exhausted their allowance.

We talked a bit and passed over some of our stuff and had a very pleasant time for the remainder of the meal.

FRED. P. S.—Was downtown and had those berries and cream, also some nice sweet cherries which are now ripe over here.

Address letters same as before to A. P. O. 705, A. E. F., France. Heard from Dungen that Walter Baisden is near here. Was at his place since but had no time to look him up. Hope to do so soon.

WAR AT A GLANCE

Artillery is now playing the predominant role on the western front.

It has taken the French less than one week to break down the latest German offensive between Montdidier and the Oise river and now the Germans must content themselves with violent cannonading. But even in the shelling, the Germans have not got the upper hand for the Allied artillery is replying, gun for gun.

Minor operations have been carried in some of the battle zones, the British capturing prisoners on the Flanders plains and the French taking a few captives on the Marne front.

German gunners placed American positions north of Chateau Thierry under an intense shelling with gas shells on Friday afternoon and it looked as though an infantry attack was developing, but it was not forthcoming.

It is probable that the Germans realize that they have gone as far as they can go on the southern fronts and that they are now digging in. On the northern fields of action, however, further strong attacks are expected as Prince Rupprecht (leading the German armies on the Picardy and Flanders plains) has strong forces of reserves to support his fighting divisions.

This was the 87th day of the German grand offensive and the seventh day of the latest drive south of Noyon and Montdidier.

OLANDT REBUKED BY DR. LEEPER

Rev. Mr. Olandt's Address on Conditions in Hun Prisons Savored of Praise at Asbury Park Conference of Reformed Church.

The Rev. Claus Olandt of the Reformed Church, who, in describing to members of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in Asbury Park last week of his work among the Entente prisoners in the camps in Germany, painted conditions so contrary to the evidence of investigators as to bring a query as to the truth of Ambassador Gerard's evidence from the Rev. J. L. Leeper, pastor of the First Reformed Church of Kingston, says the Asbury Park Press in its account of the proceedings of the session.

In brief, Rev. Olandt described the German commanders as men of quick sympathy for suffering prisoners. Invariably, he said, his appeals to German, men and women, for little comforts for the prisoners met with a quick and sympathetic response.

When the speaker was called by Dr. Leeper to account for the Gerard reports, and the other reports, including the cable accounts of brutality—Dr. Leeper cites specifically, the recent stories that shoes of American prisoners were taken from them—Rev. Olandt's reply was that the Gerard investigators had not acquainted him with their findings.

The minister did hear, however, that a German officer in a subordinate—and the minister naïvely declared he did not know whether it had been for his special benefit or not—that the prisoners were "not to be treated as criminals, that they were honorable prisoners of war."

In facial action and attitude of the audience plainly were in evidence during Rev. Olandt's narrative. But there was tenseness in the audience that sensed a situation which was reflected last night—upon the strength of a quite generalized account of the incident, in the comment about the city.

Dr. Leeper's manner, his restraint, was perhaps the best visible evidence that the synod was not entirely in accord on the best to see these things, but what about Mr. Gerard's investigations?

"Are we," he asked, "to place no dependence in these reports, or these stories related in the newspapers?"

Matters Before the Surrogate. A final decree of judicial settlement was granted today by Surrogate Gill on the estate of Frank Hinsberger, late of Kingston, to Sophia Stonglein, a sister, and administratrix. She was represented by H. H. Flemming.

Exhibits in Grammar Schools. Exhibits of drawing and handwork of the children of the grammar schools are being held in each of the schools in the city. Parents of the pupils are invited to see these exhibits and become better acquainted with the work of the children.

Lawn Party This Evening. This evening a lawn party will be held on the court house lawn under the auspices of Clinton Chapter, No. 445, O. E. S. It is expected that it will be well attended.

Addresses in Jewish Church. Several addresses will be made by prominent New York speakers Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the Agudas Achim Synagogue on West Union street.

The American Y. M. C. A. Eagle Hut is a great place. I had breakfast, dinner and supper there. Had pancakes and honey for breakfast, which was quite a treat. They had a very nice concert there in the evening. We have no Y. M. C. A. in this camp but have a Church Army (English), which is about the same thing, also two English canteens where we buy tea, cake and a few other things. Almost every other thing we need we can get in the stores, except candy, which is very scarce here. There are two good movie theaters here, and about three miles from here there is a very large one. I was there one night to a play, musical comedy, which was fine. Last week was a vaudeville, which was very good. Can get a good seat for one shilling three pence, equal to 30 cents in our money, so you see they are much cheaper here than in the U. S.

Our squadron had a dance Friday night in the Council House and it was a great success. We have some good singers and amateur actors in our squad. They are putting on some acts at the Hippodrome, another theater near here, every night this week. Last week the English crowd gave a nice concert in the shop where I am, so you see there is a great deal of pleasure with the work and the time passes quickly.

I went to church one night and met a number of nice people; one party by the name of Palmer invited some of her fellows and myself to their house to spend the evening and had a fine supper for us (some feed). We had a fine time. They gave us the privileges of their house to come in at any time we wished. The English people are all very nice and we all feel very sorry for them, they stand the brunt of the war. I do hope "it" the U. S. will soon be able to throw their forces into the fray and settle the Kaiser and his crown forever.

I suppose you all bought Liberty Bonds. I took a $50 one; could not afford any more as it takes quite some money to go around and for extra we need, besides I wish while here to see all that I can see.

Well, I guess the censor will get tired reading, so will close for this time. Give my kindest regards to all who inquire for me.

Your friend,
MILTON H. CANFIELD.

Artillerists Busy in Alps.

U-BOATS STILL LUCK OFF COAST

Taking No Chances Against Armed Vessels but Adopt Camouflage Tactics Familiar on the Other Side.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
An Atlantic Port, June 15.—Bringing with her the most thrilling story of a fight between an armed merchant vessel and a German U-boat that has ever reached this port, the British steamer Keemun docked here today after a running fight with a U-boat that mounted five inch guns and was as fast as the Keemun. The Keemun was attacked off the Virginia coast and escaped without being damaged.

With positive evidence that at least two German U-boats are still operating off the Atlantic coast, the United States naval patrol doubled its efforts to run them down today. Following the escape of several vessels after running fights with the raiders, one arrival at this port today told a story of the use of camouflage, which was rigged up look like a freighter.

A thrilling story of a twelve hour running fight between the British steamship Author and a submarine was brought to port by Captain George Aitken, commander of the steamer. The Author is one of the few armed craft attacked to date by the Germans. The Germans showed no desire to come within range of the Author's guns, though the sea shark trailed her for twelve hours. Shells and depth bombs were used against the U-boat by Captain Aitken with effect and the submarine shelled the steamer for hours, finally giving up the chase.

The story of the camouflage was told by the captain of the Norwegian steamer Viland, who was detained aboard the U-boat several hours after his vessel had been sunk. He said the submarine had from behind standing high out of the water, and read about the Broadway crossing accident, and although the news was old, I enjoyed reading the papers. I received a letter from Geo. Tietjen on Sunday, and was glad to hear from him. All the boys here are feeling fine; since I came over I have gained 12 pounds. It is a great country. Every other night I am able to get a pass from 5 till 10:45 and every other Sunday I have off.

PARIS SAVED; STALEMATE AGAIN

New Attacks Expected But "European War Experts" Believe Further Important German Gains Improbable.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 15.—Paris is safe. The fourth German attempt to break the Allied line has ended in failure.

The Germans were unable to renew their attacks on the Montdidier-Oise front (the scene of their latest offensive) although there has been local fighting and heavy bombardments. European war experts are confident that the German rush has been stopped all along the line. The French can get a good seat for one shilling three pence, equal to 30 cents in our money, so you see they are much cheaper here than in the U. S.

There was a new outbreak of artillery fighting on the Picardy front, in the sector of Hanged Wood, while the reciprocal cannonading between Villers-Cotterets and Chateau Thierry has continued.

Not only do the Allies hold the upper hand on the land but their superiority in the air is felt everywhere. Allied combat machines are daily beating the Germans above the four great fighting zones and devastating raids are being carried out methodically far behind the German lines. Twelve German airplanes were sent down by French airmen in one day while two captive balloons, that were being used for observation purposes were destroyed.

On Thursday night bombing squadrons on French machines made a raid on German cantonnements and military works dropping nearly twenty tons of high explosives. Much damage was done.

ENEMY IS ACTIVE ON MARINES FRONT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American army at the Marne, June 14.—(Night)—This afternoon the Germans opened a concentrated bombardment against the American position at Triangle Farm, immediately northwest of Chateau Thierry, on the Marne front.

There was no infantry attack. The enemy today used captured French aeroplanes to fly over the American positions for bombing and machine gunning the United States troops.

Paris Welcomes Doughboys.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 15.—Members of the American colony met and cheered the first trainload of American wounded arriving from the front. The doughboys were only slightly wounded, grinned cheerfully through the windows of the coaches or from the steps of the crowded cars, from where they were seated. Each hospital train was marked "U. S. A."

LIGHT ON NEW DRAFT TREATIES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 15.—The contents of the recently negotiated draft treaty between the United States and the British government which is to serve as a model for similar conventions between all the allied nations, came to light today, removing many misunderstandings which have arisen on the subject.

Under the terms of the treaty all Americans between the ages of 19 by birth or British territory will be made subject to the draft. This provision constituted the chief reason for the action of the senate on March 21 in returning the treaty to the state department for revision.

The state department was unable to secure the removal of this provision from the treaty because of the fear that it would involve still further delay. However, it has been agreed that the United States government exercises the right to exempt by diplomatic certificate Americans in Great Britain outside the age limit in the United States.

In respects to British subjects in the United States the military age for the time being is fixed at 20 to 44 years, both inclusive.

ONE "SOMEWHERE" NO MORE A MYSTERY

Life in Camp And Town in the Girondo—One Way to Beat the Bread Stale in a Restaurant.

Camp de Souge, France, May 24.—I guess I sort of surprised you when you read the heading on this letter. Now I know it is too bad that I am ending your speculations by telling you where I am but then I think you have had enough fun out of it for a while. The latest is that we much suffering "war heroes," way back here 500 miles from the front, may tell the folks at home where we are located. You are quite right in thinking I am near Bordeaux for I am, about 20 kilometers away. And in my former letters when I spoke of going to the city I referred to Bordeaux. Now that you know where I am you will understand why I am anxious to get out and move up a bit nearer the front. I am getting tired of this slow going on so close by. Well, I hope I may soon get a chance to move.

Yes, I have seen Mrs. Astor a number of times and she, you know is at the "X" in town. Several times I have been served by her when I ate there. A few weeks ago I stopped in for a lunch before taking the truck back to camp and I had to laugh at her "egg sandwiches."—Well, I won't criticize, they were meant well, and weren't so very bad.

Just came back from chow and feel a little bit more hungry than before. Just as I came out of the mess hall I met the mess sergeant with a dish of nice, red, juicy strawberries. Oh, for about a pint of cream and a nice dish of fruit. I guess I will have to buy some after pay day. There are quite a lot of berries raised here, but not great big ones like at home, but a much smaller fruit and very well flavored, too. They have been ripe for about ten days now and I saw a few in market.

Carl, "Jake" and I are living in a nice little room by ourselves just now. Principally because the other fellows raise so much deviltry in the squad room just when we want to sleep. We have fixed up the room with pictures of our friends and some of those dreamy pictures from Judge and are quite at home now. How long it will last I know not.

The other night we figured up when we would be over here six months and found on June 3 we would be entitled to one of those long service stripes. You know what they are: a V shaped piece of gold braid on the left sleeve just above the wrist. If a fellow stays over here three or four years he will be a regular circus horse and when it should chance to be so unfortunate as to acquire a couple of under stripes on his other sleeve, oh, joy, well, by the time you get this we will already, perhaps, have been decorated with the gold ones.

So the wait was. I knew Kingston never would go dry and you see what the woman vote did. Nothing. Perhaps you would be interested in a description of one of our Sunday's spent on pass in town where we have friends.

Of course the trip is made by auto unless you prefer a six mile hike to a trolley where for 30 centimes you ride about 12 miles to our destination, but we don't care for the walk, so take a truck. The country is beautiful now, everything bright green and those low, white stone houses with the red tile roofs are very picturesque. In fact, once you leave the sand of the camp behind you are in a very pretty part of the country.

The last time we were down we were refused admittance to the house of our friends until we asked in French how everyone was, and had in return told how well we were, etc. Why we even have to ask for food at the table in French. That is it is intended for French. But say, lead me to one of those French menu cards at The Stuyvesant and I'll say I would get some meal. Well we had intended going for a little picnic near by where the folks had friends but it was too threatening, so delayed it. If we don't have dinner, real, at about 3: a glass of wine at about 5, and stay for supper at 8, we insult the people. It seems to me they eat about six times a day and supper usually lasts from about 8 until after 10 o'clock. One of the girls can sure play the piano and we have some real American one-steps. The first ragtime I heard her play was "Everyone Is Doing It."

I must tell you of an incident which happened some time ago. It did not strike me so funny until Carl wrote to his friend in Bayonne and she gave the letter to her minister to read in church for the amusement of the congregation and then he made some amusing remarks.

We were dining in one of the best restaurants in town and as usual received our bread allowance. You know how I eat bread. It was gone before I was half through the meal and of course could get no more. Next to us were two daughters and their mother, evidently. When they came in we noticed a package they carried and it seemed to amuse them very much. They hid it under the table and seemed to be having a great time.

Naturally we made some remarks about bread and tried to get more and failed. Then the woman tapped me on the back and asked me if I cared for some bread to eat with our "fragments." We were sort of green and could not at the time understand much French, so we sort of said yes, in a puzzled way.

Behold one of the girls produced the mysterious package and took out one of those two foot loaves of bread.

Boches Get Sample of What Many Authorities Believe Will be Big Factor in Winning Final Decision.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American Army in France, June 14.—(Night)—A highly experienced American flyer who formerly was in the French army led the first party of all Americans who flew over the German lines and bombarded towns in the rear. There was a big jollification dinner at the flyers' headquarters tonight over the success of the first real American air raid on German territory and the flyers who took part and all returned safely at dusk, were given a great ovation.

A large group of American, French and British officers attached to daylight bombing squadrons, including some during British flyers who have been raiding Rhine valley towns, saw our first bombing planes get away in their first flight.

"This is the first," said one of the British officers, "but I hope before long the Americans will be going over in great droves, showing the Boches what real bombing is like."

The huge bombing planes were wheeled out into the sunlight on a grassy plain. The observers crawled underneath and fastened the bombs on. They then climbed into their seats and gave their machine guns a final test. Many of these observers had made flights with British and French aviators over the German lines on bombing expeditions.

The pilots took their places, mechanics gave the propellers a whirl and the machines, with the commander of the unit leading, rolled around into a formation and looked just like so many sprinters teeing the mark and waiting for the starter's pistol. Suddenly a motor farthest overhauled to sound louder than the rest and someone cried:

"They're off!" And they were. The first machine, carrying the commander, raced across the turf and rose upward and was off for the Hun lines. The others followed at short intervals, keeping the formation that had been decided upon.

It was late in the afternoon when the machines passed over the German lines and they drew only listless fire from the German anti-aircraft guns. But when they approached the railway junction, which was their objective, the German guns opened up.

The sky with shrieking bombers. The bombers slid down a few hundred meters, retaining the same formation they had started with. The commander, in the lead, sighted the railway station first. He fired a pistol as a signal and then the first bomb went from his machine to its destination below. Others followed in rapid succession and soon the railway junction was shrouded with a smoke screen where the bombs were bursting on their objectives.

A large bunch of German flyers appeared and several attempts were made to cut off some of our bombers. The attempts all failed and all returned safely.

French bread and cut off a generous portion. That had been the joke. It seems they buy bread on the family as to as to have plenty when they have exhausted their allowance.

We talked a bit and passed over some of our stuff and had a very pleasant time for the remainder of the meal.

P. S.—Was downtown and had some berries and cream; also some nice sweet cherries which are now ripe over here.

Address letters came as before to A. P. O. 705, A. E. F., France. Heard from Demgen that Walter Baisden is near here. Was at his place since but had no time to look him up. Hope to do so soon.

WAR AT A GLANCE

Artillery is now playing the predominant role on the western front.

It has taken the French less than one week to break down the latest German offensive between Montdidier and the Oise river, and now the Germans must content themselves with violent cannonading. But even in the shelling, the Germans have not got the upper hand for the Allied artillery is replying, gun for gun.

Minor operations have been carried in some of the battle zones, the British capturing prisoners on the Flanders plains and the French taking a few captives on the Marne front.

German gunners placed American positions northwest of Chateau Thierry under an intense drumfire with gas shells on Friday afternoon and it looked as though an infantry attack was developing, but it was not forthcoming.

It is probable that the Germans realize that they have gone as far as they can go on the southern battle fronts and that they are now digging in. On the northern fields of action, however, further strong attacks are expected as Prince Rupprecht (leading the German armies on the Picardy and Flanders plains) has strong forces of reserves to support his fighting divisions.

This was the 87th day of the German grand offensive and the seventh day of the latest drive south of Noyon and Montdidier.

OLANDT REBUKED BY DR. LEEPER

Rev. Mr. Olandt's Address on Conditions in Hun Prisons Savored of Praise at Asbury Park Conference of Reformed Church.

The Rev. Claus Olandt of the Reformed Church, who, in describing to members of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in Asbury Park last week of his work among the Entente prisoners in the German camps, painted conditions so contrary to the evidence of investigators as to bring a query as to the truth of Ambassador Gerard's evidence from the Rev. J. L. Leeper, pastor of the First Reformed Church of Kingston, says the Asbury Park Press in its account of the proceedings of the session.

In brief, Rev. Olandt described the German commanders as men of quick sympathy for suffering prisoners. Invariably, he said, his appeals to Germans, men and women, for little comforts for the prisoners met with a quick and sympathetic response.

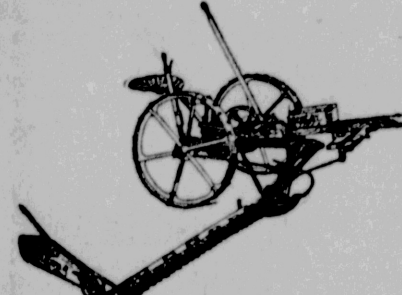

When the speaker was called by Dr. Leeper to account for the Gerard reports, and the other reports, including the cable accounts of brutality—Dr. Leeper cities specifically the recent stories that shoes of American prisoners were taken from them—Rev. Olandt's reply was that the Gerard investigators had not acquainted him with their findings.

REGULATING THE WINTER COAL SUPPLY

Florists Are in Many Cases Driven to Close Some of Their Houses—Most Factories Are Not Permitted to Burn Anthracite.

Those who would get in their winter's supply of coal may now be able to get two-thirds of what they want for the winter if the coal is for domestic purposes—the home, hospital, public utility, food manufacture.

Go to the dealer and sign a card on which you state the supply you used last winter and the quantity you may now have on hand. If the dealer has the coal, and presumably he has, he may furnish you the two-thirds you ask for. But that is the limit of what you can get until the rest of his trade have obtained their two-thirds. Then you may be able to get the other third. Or you may not, depending on the supply.

No Anthracite for Factories. Manufacturers who are not on the preference list or who fail to secure exemption by applying to Washington are entirely cut off from the use of anthracite. Including pea and all other sizes. This affects the brick manufacturers, lace mills, shirt factories, cigar manufacturers, foundries and most of the lines of production going out of Kingston. Probably they would not be restricted in the use of soft coal but the circular does not refer to that.

The food manufacturers, including of course the bakers but not confectioners, and the ship building plants are in the preference lists together with domestic consumers.

Florists Badly Hit. The industry most affected through ruling of the fuel administration is the florists' who, in normal supply. The florist of course has recourse to the fuel administration at Washington where he may apply for specific exemption, which will rarely be allowed.

One case has come to the attention of the fuel administrator where a florist with twenty-three houses has closed twenty to comply with this ruling, leaving three houses in operation which he figures will give him wide leeway in the use of fuel on the fifty per cent basis which is allowed him. Where this ruling is not modified on the application of a florist it may mean shutting down indefinitely a part of the business.

Florists Who May Close Up.

The one house florists would suffer proportionately, if not worse than the larger ones, for in reducing the fires to meet the contingency of shortage of fuel, it would mean destruction of the plants that require a certain amount of heat for which the heating plant is built to give the normal supply required. In that case there would be nothing to do except close down the plant entirely.

Not Essential to Win War.

The right to appeal is permitted florists by the government and the fuel administration would very likely take cognizance and grant a certain extension of the limit where it is shown by the owner of the plant that a denial of his appeal means the ruin of his business. This, however, is more conjecture based on the assurances of the government that it does not intend to drive any legitimate business out of existence. The business of the florists is not considered in any degree essential to the prosecution of the war. It is conspicuous on that account for there are very few if any other legitimate businesses that do not help the war in some way if not directly.

Coal Allotment is Stringent.

In the circular of June 8 fixing the allotment for this state it will be seen that it is distinctly stated that this allotment includes the coal that may be granted to manufacturers on specific exemptions when applied for and allowed, as well as that which is to go for all other purposes. And in the succeeding circular it is made plain that all yards in operation in 1916 that may have changed hands will be taken care of.

One point made clear that should not be overlooked is especially where wood is to be obtained, is that the fuel administration invites suggestions from the state administrators as to the towns in which substitute fuel may be used so that the amount of shipments of coal to those towns may be regulated to meet the conditions.

The two latest circulars relative to coal follows:

Stringent Official Orders.
United States Fuel Administration,
61 Broadway, New York City.
June 8, 1918.

To All County Fuel Administrators:

Circular No. 31.

Dear Sir:—As you have been already advised by Washington, the allotment of anthracite domestic coal (pea and large) made to your state is 15,835,200 tons. This allotment includes in addition to fuel required for domestic purposes, the quantity of coal required for manufacturing or for public utility purposes to be delivered under exemption orders from Washington of which we understand you have notice. It is understood that no domestic coal is to be used for other than domestic purposes where it is delivered in 1916-17 or not, unless the user has an exemption order from Washington covering his essential requirements; and to the end that the largest quantity of coal may be saved for domestic purposes it is desirable that every dealer be restrained from selling any coal for other purposes without specific authority.

Anthracite shippers have been instructed to consign no domestic coal to manufacturers without instructions covered by specific exemptions from Washington, and not increase shipments to public utilities over 1916-17 deliveries without like authority.

In view of possible substitution of other fuel that may be locally increased or decreased supplies may be recommended by the county fuel administrator for different towns.

The circular then invites suggestions from the state fuel administrator, "as may seem desirable so that as early as possible in the coal year shipments into towns may be adjusted to conform with new allotment agreed upon between us."

Orders As to New Dealers.

United States Fuel Administration,
61 Broadway, New York City.
June 11, 1918.

To All County Fuel Administrators:

Circular No. 26.

To Anthracite Producers and Distributors:

Gentlemen:—

As you are aware the rules for distribution during the present coal year are based in the distribution for the coal year beginning April 1, 1916.

Some instances have been brought to the attention of the committee where coal dealers did not commence doing business until 1917; and other instances where retail coal dealers in 1916 subsequently sold their business to other individuals or firms. Under these exceptional circumstances it is not the intention of the committee that such dealers, who have regular yards, proper facilities and are essential in the distribution of coal throughout the community in which they are located should not receive any coal during the present year.

It is the desire, however, that the comparatively few dealers who started in 1917 should be furnished with reasonable tonnage by the producer or distributor who supplied them in that year and in the instances where the retail dealer of 1916 has disposed of his plant; the source of supply for that trestle during 1916 should ship an equivalent tonnage during the present year to the successor or new owner, provided of course in all cases that the usual financial requirements, etc., are satisfactory.

Yours very truly,

ANTHRACITE COMMITTEE.

Wm. T. Grier, Secretary.

Burgevin, the florists, are considerably affected, one them said this morning, "We have some word," he added, "and that will help us to piece out. We will have to close down some of our houses." He said it would not cripple the business, but it could concentrate much of their cultivation in the houses the supply of fuel may allow them to operate.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, June 15.—The birthdays of Miss Marian Mott and Mrs. J. J. Lyons occurred on Tuesday, June 11, and the double event was celebrated by a gathering at the home of Miss Mott on that evening. The guests were the Misses Estelle House, Winifred House, Amy Smith, Dorothy Drake, Florence Booth, Dorothy Fuhs, Elizabeth Hummel, Rena Sothing and Hazel Mott of Esopus and Miss Helen Green of Kingston.

Four others who gathered on account of sickness and other causes were unable to be present. The evening was spent in playing various games and singing war songs and other music. At 10:30 all were in the large, spacious dining room, where a table, tastefully decorated with cut flowers and modern ferns met their view. At each end of the table was a birthday cake, one for Miss Mott and the other for Mrs. Lyons. The only light in the room was that afforded by candles with which the cakes were decorated. Roses and ferns also adorned the cakes. These candles indicated the age of the ladies in whose honor the company had assembled. The favors were small silk flags attached to pins. After the guests had partaken of the dainty viands provided, they adjourned to the parlor and the games were resumed and peal after peal of laughter gave evidence that all were having a jolly time. Shortly after midnight the merry guests departed, wishing their hosts and Mrs. Lyons many happy returns of the day.

On Sunday last Miss Mott and Ephraim Freer of Poughkeepsie came to Esopus and walked to West Esopus to revisit the scenes of their childhood. Mr. Freer having spent his boyhood days on the farm now owned by Esopus, and Mrs. Freer her girlhood days on the place now known as the Hudson river chicken farm. After visiting these places and making some calls they walked to West Park to see the beautiful Harry P. Bingham place and finished their trip by train from West Park.

Miss Helen Green returned to her home in Kingston on Wednesday after spending a few days with her friend, Miss Marian Mott.

May and Thomas Scanlon were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith.

Letters received by friends from Private John Anderson, who recently went to Camp Wadsworth, S. C., bring the welcome news that he is in good health, having already gained five pounds and spirits. He is wearing his uniform with pleasure and looking forward to the time when he will get a whack at the opposing forces.

W. R. Harrison Bible Class.

The W. R. Harrison Bible Class of the St. James Sunday School had a most successful picnic Friday afternoon in spite of the showers the early part of the afternoon. Automobiles took the party to and from Legg's Mills, where they were entertained at the C. R. Styles camp. About forty members of the class were present, including the pastor and his wife. All reported a fine time, and many were the expressions of thanks to those who had charge of the affair. The class is in excellent condition, both as to members and spirit.

"YELLOW DOG" DRIVE NEXT ON PROGRAM

Boys to Organize Along Lines of Fiction Story to Rebuke the Busy Street Liars All Over the Country.

The movement to organize the boy power of America into a giant army of youthful detectives in a campaign against "The Yellow Dog" assumed definite form in New York state this week when the idea received the endorsement of Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, New York City Police Commissioner R. E. Enright and the pledged support of the mayors, chiefs of police and councilmen who attended the conference of mayors and city officials held at Newburgh during the past week.

"The Yellow Dog" is the name given by Henry Irving Dodge, author and American propagandist, to that type of American who, without realizing the fact, is spreading insidious German propaganda; and this dangerous thoughtlessness is to be stamped out by the boy detectives of Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs that will be formed in every American city, town and hamlet as rapidly as membership cards can be issued and patriotic men found who will volunteer to act as leaders of the boys enrolled in the work. Headquarters for the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs will be established at 726 Seventh Ave., New York city, and the work of organizing the boys will start at once.

In defining a "Yellow Dog" Mr. Dodge says in part, "Any man who tells the government of its faults and points out how to correct them is its friend, but any man who talks against the government just to discourage it is a Yellow Dog."

Amplifying this statement, Mr. Dodge says that he had in mind the American citizen who falsely repeats idle gossip, who jumps at conclusions upon somebody's say and abuses the government without consideration or any foundation in fact for his disparaging remarks.

Spreads Hun Propaganda.

"The Yellow Dog is a real menace to the country," says Mr. Dodge. "Idle conversation causes unwarranted distrust of officials who are doing their utmost to win the war. It spreads gloom when every ounce of encouragement is needed to protect our moral armaments. It is a tendency toward unrestrained and unjust criticism is so widespread, that a widespread movement is necessary to offset it, and the limitless energy of the American boy will be brought to bear to stamp out this poignant, dangerous chatter and if possible trace the near sedulous source to 'the man lower down' to the cunning brain of the Hun propagandist."

The two-legged Yellow Dog roams around with his eyes closed, his mouth open, and his brain fast asleep. With his eyes closed he doesn't see that he is yellow, and with his brain fast asleep he doesn't know that he is an enemy to the United States. From his open mouth come lies and slanderous gossip against the government that will sap the vitality of the nation's patriotism if not stopped at once."

"The harm done by the American man who comes under the classification of Yellow Dog is psychological in its operation and the boy detectives of the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs will fight the evil with psychological ammunition. They will challenge the Yellow Dog with the question, 'How do you know?' and they will hand to every man they hear unjustly knocking the government a printed slip of paper that should awaken him to a realization of the harm he is doing."

This slip defines the Yellow Dog as described in Mr. Dodge's story and is reprinted by permission of Harper & Brothers:

THE YELLOW DOG.

Are You a Yellow Dog?

"If a man talks against the Government and calls back up what he says, he's a Yellow Dog."

"Any man who tells the Government about its faults and how to correct them is its friend."

"Any man who tells the Government about its faults just to discourage it is a Yellow Dog."

"Every calamity-howler is a Yellow Dog."

"Any man that says anything that gives the Germans a chance to write and say this ain't a popular war is a Yellow Dog. It's a popular war and then some!"

The meanest Yellow Dog of the lot is the one that stands by and hears his country abused without protest."

"Free speech, yes!"

"Free lies, no!"

"Which would you rather believe—Uncle Sam or the Kaiser?"

"Any man that won't buy a bond isn't willing to pay his share of the expenses of our brothers in the trenches who are risking their lives fighting for him. Can any Yellow Dog be yellow'er'n that?"

"Anybody that says U. S. bonds ain't the safest investment in the world ask him how he ki. ws; if he can't answer he's a Yellow Dog."

"Anybody who talks peace by compromise is a Yellow Dog. Judas made a 50-50 peace with the devil. Everybody knows where Judas got off."

"Our beloved country is in danger. Nobody but a Yellow Dog will obstruct the Anti-Yellow-Dog movement."

"This is an American town. We're behind the Government."

"The Yellow Dog may have his day, but this ain't it."

"All Yellow Dogism is made in Germany."

"If this doesn't have the desired effect it will be a matter for the police department of each city to investigate, for the Yellow Dog that doesn't change his color after his faults are pointed out to him, is an open and out enemy to the United States."

Among the many New York officials who gave their hearty endorsement and assurances of full support in their respective cities were Francis M. Hugo, secretary of state, R. E. Enright, commissioner of police of New York city, Foster Studholme, mayor of Olean, Benj. L. Rand, mayor of North Tonawanda, Abram Baird, mayor of Gloversville, George R. Smith, chief of police of Gloversville, George W. Lane, mayor of Corning, Frank B. Davis, mayor of Ithaca, Cornelius F. Burns, mayor of Troy, Andrew Copley, mayor of Oneonta, Victor C. Lewis, mayor of Fulton, H. C. Midlam, mayor of Rome, Rosslyn M. Cox, mayor of Middletown, Walter R. Stone, Mayor of Syracuse, and Jos. A. Hamlin, commissioner public safety, Utica.

Membership cards, enrollment blanks and all necessary literature will be furnished free, and the boys enrolled will be asked to contribute nothing but their true and patriotic efforts.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Concerning the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association

The public is earnestly requested to consider carefully certain well known matters relating to the interests of the retail dealers in which all consumers of foods are especially concerned.

We have organized an association of retailers numbering 65 members of the leading houses located in all parts of the city, so that you can always find in any neighborhood a dealer who is a member who is willing to serve you and serve you right. This association is open to all retailers doing like business in the city. This organization has nothing to do with prices; there is to be no combination to keep up prices, or to control any dealer's prices. It is for a greater and worthier purpose. TO PROTECT DEALERS FROM CUSTOMERS WHO MAKE IT THEIR BUSINESS TO RUN ACCOUNTS FROM PLACE TO PLACE, LEAVING THEIR BUSINESS UNPAID.

This does NOT mean that legitimate accounts run at any store are to be made known to other dealers. It does NOT mean blacklisting anybody. It does NOT mean any agreement among the dealers to keep up prices.

CONSUMERS ARE PROTECTED AGAINST IRRESPONSIBLE DEALERS. DEALERS WHO SELL BOGUS OR DANGEROUS PRODUCTS, DEALERS WHO SELL LARGELY BY MISREPRESENTATIONS.

The association is sternly against selling unwholesome foods. The association is in a better position to protect the consumer than the consumer would be himself. A dealer who violates the law if a member of the association can be expelled. He wouldn't want anything worse to happen to him. Facing such action a dealer who enjoys and appreciates a paying trade will not take chances of losing his reputation. A dealer who persists in violating the laws by selling foods under false labels or damaged or injurious foods, can be prosecuted and the Kingston Association of Retail Dealers with its large resources and its technical knowledge of the practices of unprincipled dealers would more effectively reach such dealers than is possible for a consumer.

The organization of retailers into a protective association such as this means:
1—Clean, honest, reliable dealers to feed the public.
2—Efficiency in service to the consumers.
3—Public confidence in the dealers.

At this time when the government is requiring conservation of foods, organization is more than ever needed. It also eliminates profiteering and secret hoarding of foods, because such things are known to other dealers and an organization can act where single individuals would not.

SO YOU SEE THAT ORGANIZATION ALONG THESE LINES SUCH AS THE KINGSTON RETAILERS HAVE EFFECTED PROTECTS THE CONSUMERS AS WELL AS THE DEALERS.

Very respectfully submitted to the consumers of Kingston by

FLETCHER KNOCKED WOLF FOR A GOAL

Abel Street Excited Friday After- noon When Mr. Wolf Was Knock- ed Down by Mr. Banks—Accounts Differ as to How It Started.

Friday afternoon Abel street, near Washington Hall, was treated to a little excitement when Fletcher Banks, a negro employed by Abe Vogel, knocked out John Wolf, who has a saloon on that street. Ac- counts as to just what happened dif- fer somewhat.

One version, and that given by Fletcher, was that he had gone to a nearby barbershop to see if it was full as Mr. Vogel wanted to be shaved and did not care to wait long.

Fletcher glanced in the barber shop and saw the barber was busy. Mr. Wolf was also in the shop wait- ing his turn.

A little later Mr. Wolf came out and it is said that he called, Mr. Banks vile names.

Later yet Mr. Banks came back, stopped, and asked Mr. Wolf the fol- lowing question:

"Did sh ever do anything to you Mr. Wolf that you done call me dem names?"

"No," Mr. Wolf is reported to have replied.

"Den ah am goin' to do something to you," Mr. Banks is quoted as say- ing as he swung his mighty right on Mr. Wolf's jaw.

Mr. Wolf measured his length on the sidewalk.

Still later reports state that Mr. Wolf is contemplating calling to see Judge Schrick and having a war- rant issued for the arrest of Mr. Banks. Up to 10 o'clock this morn- ing no warrant had been issued.

There will be no admission charge and the entire pro- gram will be repeated.

Pilot Eaton delivered an address on the work of the flyers "Over There," and Miss Thelma Olms gave a fine violin solo. Miss Helen K. Stev- ens also spoke.

STATE AUTO ASSN MEETING.

At Middletown June 26-27. Will Be Well Entertained.

Albany, June 15.—Aside from matters pertaining to the successful prosecution of the great fight of the civilized nations for the freedom of the people, one of the chief topics of discussion at the semi-annual meeting of the New York State Automobile Association, at Middle- town, June 26-27, will be an in- sistent demand that all drivers of automobiles be licensed and pass a satisfactory examination on the rules of the road, at least. Other matters of vital interest to the motorists of the state will be under discussion and definite action de- cided upon.

The business session will be con- cluded in one session on the after- noon of the 26th. The entertain- ment provided by the citizens of Middletown will be of a most inter- esting and pleasant nature, includ- ing a drive through the most beau- tiful section of New York; an inspec- tion of the British Remount Station, a Goshen; drive through Tuxedo Park; and on to Bear Mountain Park, where, at the latter, luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock Thurs- day, 27, at Bear Mountain Inn, or on the grounds, and addresses deliv- ered by prominent state officials and distinguished guests. After lunch- con the long line of automobiles will resume the drive to West Point where, at 5:30, delegates and guests will be permitted to witness a dress parade of the cadets at this great military academy.

Among the invited guests and speakers will be Governor Whitman, Attorney-General Merton E. Lewis, Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, Commissioner of Highways Edwin Duffley, Supt. of State Troopers Maj. George P. Chandler, Commissioner Richard Enright, Public Safety De- partment, New York city, repre- sentatives of Canadian Automobile As- sociation, returned Canadian soldier speakers and others.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Dried fruits may be stewed and used without the addition of sugar. Prune juice and prune pulp will make a fine sauce for a steamed pudding or for dry cake when steamed, needing no sugar to make it palat- able. Dates, figs, as well as raisins, may be used in the same way.

Maple Blanc Mange With Nuts.—Heat a quart of milk, add a pinch of salt and stir in four table- spoonfuls of cornstarch which has been moistened with a little cold milk. Stir and cook over hot water for eight minutes or until the starchy taste has been removed. Have ready six table- spoonfuls of shaved maple sugar that has been mixed with one lightly beaten egg. Add this gradually to the hot milk and stir until the sugar is dis- solved, but do not boil. Remove from the heat and turn into a pretty mold to harden. Serve unadorned with whipped cream, sweetened with maple syrup and with a half-cupful of pecan nuts added.

Banana Marmalade.—Peel half a dozen bananas (three may be under- ripe) and drop them into a cupful of boiling water. Add the juice of two lemons and cook until thick, stirring to prevent burning; this takes ten minutes. Then measure the fruit pulp thus made and add half as much sugar by measure as there is of the pulp. Then cook until of the desired thickness. Less sugar may be used if a thinner jelly is wanted. Pour into glasses and cover as usual. This makes about three cupfuls of marmalade, or four small tumbler.

Add a cupful of cold cooked rice to the griddle cake batter; they will be more substantial and it is a good way to use up leftover rice. Even if it is sweetened it is not objectionable.

Barley and Peanut Salad.—Cook the grains of barley after soaking over- night, using one-third of a cupful, add a quarter of a cupful of chopped pean- uts, one sweet red pepper, chopped, two large apples and a stalk of celery. Cut the apple and vegetables into nar- row strips, mix with boiled dressing and serve on heart leaves of lettuce. Put raisins, dates or figs into rice pudding, thus saving on the sugar. Eat more fruits and fresh vegetables, saving fats and meats.

REGULATING THE WINTER COAL SUPPLY

Florists Are in Many Cases Driven to Close Some of Their Houses—Most Factories Are Not Permitted to Burn Anthracite.

Those who would get in their winter's supply of coal may now be able to get two-thirds of what they want for the winter if the coal is for domestic purposes—the home, hospital, public utility, food manufacture.

Go to the dealer and sign a card on which you state the supply you used last winter and the quantity you may now have on hand. If the dealer has the coal, and presumably he has, he may furnish you the two-thirds you ask for. But that is the limit of what you can get until the rest of his trade have obtained their two-thirds. Then you may be able to get the other third. Or you may not, depending on the supply.

No Anthracite for Factories.

Manufacturers who are not on the preference list or who fail to secure exemption by applying to Washington are entirely cut off from the use of anthracite. Including pea and all other sizes. This affects the brick manufacturers, lace mills, shirt factories, cigar manufacturers, foundries and most of the lines of productions going out of Kingston.
Probably they would not be restricted in the use of soft coal but the circular does not refer to that.

The food manufacturers, including of course the bakers but not confection-ers, and the ship building plants are in the preference lists together with domestic consumers.

Florists Badly Hit.

The industry most affected through ruling of the fuel administration is the florist's who is permitted to secure only one-half of his normal supply. The florist of course has recourse to the fuel administration at Washington where he may apply for specific exemption, which will rarely be allowed.

One case has come to the attention of the fuel administrator where a florist with twenty-three houses has closed twenty to comply with this ruling, leaving three houses in operation which he figures will give him wide leeway in the use of fuel on the fifty per cent basis which is allowed him. Where this ruling is not modified on the application of a florist it may mean shutting down indefinitely a part of the business.

Florists Who May Close Up.

The one house florists would suffer proportionately, if not worse than the larger ones, for in reducing the florist to the contingency of shortage of fuel, it would mean destruction of the plants that require a certain amount of heat for which the normal supply required. In that case there would be nothing to do except close down the plant entirely.

Not Essential to Win War.

The right to appeal is permitted florists by the government, and the fuel administration would very likely take cognizance and grant a certain extension of the limit where it is shown by the owner of the plant that a denial of his appeal means the ruin of his business. This, however, is mere conjecture based on the assurances of the government, that it does not intend to drive any legitimate business out of existence.
The business of the florists is not considered in any degree essential to the prosecution of the war. It is conspicuous on that account for there are very few if any other legiti-mate business that do not help the war in some way or indirectly.

Coal Allotment is Stringent.

In the circular of June 8 fixing the allotment for this state it will be seen that it is distinctly stated that this allotment includes the coal that may be granted to manufacturers on specific exemptions when applied for and allowed, as well as that which is to go for all other purposes. And in the succeeding circular it is made plain that all yards in operation in 1916 that may have changed hands will be taken care of.

One point made clear that should not be overlooked, especially where wood is to be obtained, is that the fuel administration invites suggestions from the state administrators as to the towns in which substitute fuel may be used so that the amount of shipments of coal to those towns may be regulated to meet the conditions.

The two latest circulars relative to coal follows:—

Stringent Official Orders.
United States Fuel Administration,
61 Broadway, New York City.
June 8, 1918.

To All County Fuel Administrators: Circular No. 31.

Dear Sir:—

As you have been advised by Washington, the allotment of anthracite domestic coal (upon an average) made to your state is 15,555,500 tons. This allotment includes in addition to fuel required for domestic purposes, the quantity of coal required for manufacturing or for public utility purposes to be delivered under exemption orders from Washington, of which we understand you have notice. It is understood that no delastic coal is to be used for other than domestic purposes whether delivered in 1916-17 or not, unless the user has an exemption order from Washington covering his essential requirements; and to the end that the largest quantity of coal may be saved for domestic purposes it is desirable that every dealer be restrained from selling any coal for other purposes without specific authority.

Anthracite shippers have been instructed to consign no domestic coal to manufacturers without instructions covering by specific exemptions from Washington, and to increase shipments to public utilities over 1916-17 deliveries without like authority.

In view of possible substitution of other fuel that may be had locally increased or decreased supplies may be recommended by the county fuel administrator for different towns.

The circular then invites suggestions from the state fuel administrator, "as may seem desirable so that as early as possible in the coal year shipments into towns may be adjusted as to conform with new allotment agreed upon between us."

Orders As to New Dealers.

United States Fuel Administration,
61 Broadway, New York City,
June 11, 1918.

To All County Fuel Administrators:

Circular No. 26.

To Anthracite Producers and Distributors:—

As you are aware the rules for distribution during the present coal year are based in the distribution for the coal year beginning April 1, 1916.

Some instances have been brought to the attention of the committee where coal dealers did not commence doing business until 1917; and other instances where retail coal dealers in 1916 subsequently sold their business to other individuals or firms.
Under these exceptional circumstances it is not the intention of the committee that such dealers, who have regular yards, proper facilities and are essential in the distribution of coal throughout the community in which they are located should not receive any coal during the present year.

It is the desire, however, that the comparatively few dealers who started in 1917 should be furnished a reasonable tonnage by the producer or distributor who supplied them in that year and in the instances where the retail dealer of 1916 has disposed of his plant; the source of supply for that retailer during 1916 should ship an equivalent tonnage during the present year to the successor or new owner, provided of course in all cases that the usual financial requirements, etc., are satisfactory.

Yours very truly,

ANTHRACITE COMMITTEE.

Wm. T. Grier, Secretary.

Burgevin, the florists, are considerably affected, one them said this morning, "We have some wood," he added, "and that will help us to piece out. We will have to close down some of our houses." He said it would not cripple the business. They could concentrate much of their culivation in the houses the supply of fuel may allow them to operate.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, June 15.—The birthdays of Miss Marian Mott and Mrs. J. J.
Lyons occurred on Tuesday, June 11, and the double event was celebrated by a gathering at the home of Miss Mott on that evening. The guests were the Misses Estelle House, Winfred House, Amy Smith, Dorothy Drake, Florence Booth, Dorothy
Fuchs, Elizabeth Hummel, Rena Sotting and Hazel Mott of Esopus and Miss Helen Green of Kingston.
Four others who were invited—on account of sickness and other causes—were unable to be present. The evening was spent in playing various games and singing war songs and other music. At 10:30 all were invited to the spacious dining room, where a table tastefully decorated with cut flowers and maidenhair ferns met their view. At each end of the table was a birthday cake, one for Miss Mott and the other for Mrs.
Lyons. The only light in the room was that afforded by candles with which the cakes were decorated.
Roses and ferns also adorned the cakes. These candies indicated the age of the ladies in whose honor the company had assembled. The favors were small silk flags, attached to pins.
After the guests had partaken of the dainty viands provided, they adjoined to the parlor and the games were resumed and peal after peal of laughter gave evidence that all were having a jolly time. Shortly after midnight the merry guests departed, wishing their hostess and Mrs. Lyons many happy returns of the day.

On Sunday last Mr. and Mrs.
Ephraim Freer of Poughkeepsie came to Esopus and walked to West Camp to revisit the scenes of their childhood. Mr. Freer having spent his boyhood days on the farm now owned by Palmistier, and Mrs. Freer her girlhood days on the place now known as the Hudson river chicken farm. After visiting these places and making some calls, they walked to West Park to see the beautiful Harry P. Bingham place and finished their trip by train from West Park.

Miss Helen Green returned to her home in Kingston on Wednesday after spending a few days with her friend, Miss Marian Mott.

May and Thomas Scanlon were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs.
Alexander Smith.

Letters received by friends from Private John Anderson, who recently went to Camp Wadsworth, S. C., bring the welcome news that he is in good health, having already gained five pounds and spirits. He is wearing his uniform with pleasure and looking forward to the time when he will get a whack at the opposing forces.

W. R. Harrison Bible Class.

The W. R. Harrison Bible Class of the St. James Sunday school had a most successful picnic Friday afternoon in spite of the showers the early part of the afternoon.
Automobiles took the party to and from Legg's Mills, where they were entertained at the C. R. Styles camp. About forty members of the class were present, including the pastor and his wife. All reported a fine time, and many were the expressions of thanks to those who had charge of the affair. The class is in excellent condition, both as to members and spirit.

"YELLOW DOG" DRIVE
NEXT ON PROGRAM

Boys to Organize Along Lines of Fiction Story to Rebuke the Busy Street Liers All Over the Country.

The movement to organize the boy power of America into a giant army of youthful detectives in a campaign against "The Yellow Dog" assumed definite form in New York state this week when the idea received the endorsement of Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, New York City Police Commissioner R.
B. Enright and the pledged support of the mayors, chiefs of police and councilmen who attended the conference of mayors and city officials held at Newburgh during the past week.

"The Yellow Dog" is the name given by Henry Irving Dodge, author and American propagandist, to that type of American, who, without realizing the fact, is spreading insidious German propaganda; and this dangerous thoughtlessness is to be stamped out by the boy detectives of Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs that will be formed in every American city, town and hamlet as rapidly as membership cards can be issued and patriotic men found who will volunteer to act as leaders of the boys enrolled in the work.

Headquarters for the Anti-Yellow
Dog Clubs will be established at 728 Seventh Ave., New York city, and the work of organizing the boys will start at once.

In defining a "Yellow Dog," Mr.

Dodge says in part, "any man who tells the government of its faults and points out how to correct them is its friend, but any man who talks against the government just to discourage, is a Yellow Dog."

Amplifying this statement, Mr.
Dodge says that he had in mind the American citizen who falsely repeats idle gossip, who jumps at conclusions upon somebody's "say so" and abuses the government without consideration or any foundation in fact for his disparaging remarks.

Spreads Hun Propaganda.

"The Yellow Dog is a real menace to the country," says Mr. Dodge.
"Idle conversation causes unwarranted distrust of officials who are doing their utmost to win the war."

It spreads gloom when every ounce of encouragement is needed to protect our moral armament. This tendency toward unrestrained and unjust criticism is so widespread that a widespread movement is necessary to offset it, and the limitless energy of the American boy will be brought to bear to stamp out this poignant, dangerous chatter and if possible trace the near seditious stores to "the man lower down"— to the cunning brain of the Hun propagandist.

The two-legged Yellow Dog rooms around with his eyes closed, his mouth open, and his brain fast asleep. With his eyes closed he doesn't see that he is yellow, and with his brain fast asleep he doesn't know that he is an enemy to the United States.

From his open mouth come lies and slanderous gossip against the government that will sap the vitality of the nation's patriotism if not stopped at once."

"The harm done by the American man who comes under the classification of a Yellow Dog is psychological in its operation and the boy detectives of the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs will fight the evil with psychological ammunition. They will challenge the Yellow Dog with the question,
'How do you know?' and they will hand to every man they meet a unjustly knocking, the government a printed slip of paper that should awaken him to a realization of the harm he is doing."

This slip defines the Yellow Dog as described in Mr. Dodge's story and is reprinted by permission of Harper & Brothers:

THE YELLOW DOG.

Are You a Yellow Dog?

"If a man talks against the Government and can't back up what he says, he's a Yellow Dog."

"Any man who tells the Government about its faults and how to correct them is its friend.

"Any man who tells the Government about its faults just to discourage it is a Yellow Dog."

"Every calamity-howler is a Yellow Dog."

"Any man that says anything that gives the Germans a chance to write and say this ain't a popular war is a Yellow Dog. It's a popular war and then some."

"The meanest Yellow Dog of the lot is the one that stands by and hears his country abused without protest."

"Free speech, yes!
"Free lies, no!"

"Which would you rather believe —Uncle Sam or the Kaiser?"

"Any man that won't buy a bond isn't willing to pay his share of the expenses of our brothers in the trenches who are risking their lives fighting for him. Can any Yellow Dog be yellow'er than that?"

"Anybody that says U. S. bonds ain't the safest investment in the world ask him how he knows; if he can't answer he's a Yellow Dog."

"Anybody who talks peace by compromise is a Yellow Dog. Judas made a 50-50 peace with the devil.
Everybody knows where Judas got off."

"Our beloved country is in danger.
Nobody but a Yellow Dog will obstruct the Anti-Yellow-Dog movement."

"This is an American town. We're behind the government."

"The Yellow Dog may have his day, but this ain't it."

"All Yellow Dogism is made in Germany."

"If this doesn't have the desired effect it will be a matter for the police department of each city to investigate, for the Yellow Dog that doesn't change his color after his faults are pointed out to him, is an out and out enemy to the United States."

Among the many New York officials who gave their hearty endorsement and assurances of full support to their respective cities were Francis Hugo, secretary of state, R. B. Enright, commissioner of police of New York city, Foster Studholme, mayor of Olean, Benj. L. Rand, mayor of North Tonawanda, Abram Baird, mayor of Gloversville, George R. Smith, chief of police of Gloversville, George W. Laue, mayor of Corning, Frank B.

Davis, mayor of Ithaca, Cornelius F.
Burns, mayor of Troy, Andrew Coperler, mayor of Oneonta, Victor C.
Lewis, mayor of Fulton, H. C. Midlam, mayor of Jamestown, Rosslyn M. Cox, mayor of Middletown, Walter R.
Stone, Mayor of Syracuse, and Jos. A.
Hamlin, commissioner public safety, Utica.

Membership cards, enrollment blanks and all necessary literature will be furnished free, and the boys enrolled will be asked to contribute nothing but their true and patriotic efforts.

of the union. "The loved and lost. Why do we call them lost?"

Because we miss them from our on-life's weary road." Mrs. Stratton, the vice-president, also paid high tribute to the memory of Architect Frank E. Estabrook, of Newburgh, who met a tragic death, in Brooklyn, on Friday, May 24. Mr. Estabmembers of the union, presented by Mrs. Ira Schoonmaker, whose efforts made it possible to secure the flag, and received by Mrs. J. E. Ap-were highly appreciated. "Flag of

with a pleasant social intercourse.
A very handsome joint gift, a centhis meeting, from Mrs. W. C. Rose and Mrs. C. D. Divine, in memory of their mothers, Mrs. George B.

members of the union. These gifts are highly appreciated by members of the union. The handsome palm, owned by the late John R. Hunt, now occupies a place on the porch

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Concerning the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association

The public is earnestly requested to consider carefully certain well known matters relating to the interests of the retail dealers in which all consumers of foods are especially concerned.

We have organized an association of retailers numbering 85 members of the leading houses located in all parts of the city, so that you can always find in any neighborhood a dealer who is a member who is willing to serve you and serve you right. This association is open to all retailers doing like business in the city.
This organization is working to do with prices; there is to be no combination to keep up prices, or to control any dealer's prices. It is for greater and better business to run accounts from place to place, leaving each account unpaid.

This does NOT mean that legitimate accounts run at any store are to be made known to other dealers. It does NOT mean blacklisting anybody. It does NOT mean any agreement among the dealers to keep up prices.

CONSUMERS ARE PROTECTED AGAINST IRRESPONSIBLE DEALERS.
DEALERS WHO SELL ROGUES OR DANGEROUS PRODUCTS, DEALERS WHO SELL LARGELY BY MISREPRESENTATIONS.

The law is sternly against selling unwholesome foods. The association is in a better position to protect the consumer than the consumer would be himself. A dealer who violates the law is a member of the association can be expelled. He wouldn't want anything worse to happen to him. Facing such action a dealer who enjoys and appreciates a paying trade will not take chances of losing his reputation. A dealer who persists in violating the laws by selling foods under false labels or damaged or injurious foods, can be prosecuted and the Kingston Association of Retail Dealers with its large resources and its technical knowledge of the practices of unprincipled dealers would more effectively reach such dealers than is possible for a consumer.

The organization of retailers into a protective association such as this means:
1—Clean, honest, reliable dealers to feed the public.
2—Efficiency in service to the consumers.
3—Public confidence in the dealers.

At this time when the government is requiring conservation of foods, organization is more than ever needed. It also eliminates profiteering and secret hoarding of foods, because such things are known to other dealers and an organization can act where single individuals would not.

SO YOU SEE THAT ORGANIZATION ALONG THESE LINES SUCH AS THE KINGSTON RETAILERS HAVE EFFECTED PROTECTS THE CONSUMERS AS WELL AS THE DEALERS.

OLD GLORY TO FLY AT FORSYTH PARK

Pythians Present Flag And Board of Public Works Will Purchase Pole—Hasbrouck Avenue Hill to be Paved—To Finish Willite Paving Here.

At a special meeting of the board of public works held Friday afternoon Scott Van Keuren, superintendent of public works, was authorized to procure a flagpole for Forsyth Park. Franklin Lodge, No. 37, K. of P., will donate a flag.

The board considered a proposal to purchase the benches in the tabernacle to be used in Forsyth Park. Action on this was postponed until the next regular meeting of the board.

Mayor Canfield reported that Commissioner of Highways Duffey had given his approval to the continuation of the Willite paving in Kingston, and that Washington had put its O. K. on Mr. Duffey's approval and had given permission to the Willite firm to procure enough asphalt for a month's paving here. It is thought that at the end of the month allowed permission will be given to procure enough asphalt to finish the paving program here.

The question of paving Hasbrouck avenue hill was discussed at length. The superintendent was directed to have a portion of the street paved with granite blocks. He reported at the meeting Friday that the work had been held up because the men whom he would have to use for the work had been kept busy with special and unexpected work, such as repairing walls on Delaware avenue, the hill on West Pierpont street. This was work which had to be done right away. The superintendent was authorized to procure extra help and to go ahead with the Hasbrouck avenue paving, and make a report on the matter at the next meeting.

The matter of the proposed lighting of Forsyth Park was discussed. No definite action was taken.

"Over There," sung by the chorus.

Address by Hon. Jos. M. Fowler.

Unfurling of Service Flag.

"America," played by band and sung by chorus and then sung in unison.

In his address, Mr. Fowler touched on the flag and what it represented; what each color and what the stars symbolized and the duty of everyone, as a citizen, to our flag and to our country, which that great flag represented.

At the unfurling of the service flag, which contains sixteen stars, Mr. Fowler spoke of the men who had left the company and had entered the service and exhorted everyone to do their duty in backing up those who had entered the service.

Rousing cheers were given for the flag and President Wilson.

At the closing, Mr. Fowler, superintendent, read a communication from Brigadier General Williams, of the Ordnance Department, Washington, D. C., congratulating the employees of the Nitro Powder Company on their efforts in backing up the government and urging them to renewed efforts for the duration of the war.

Sheffield, owner of the Sheffield paper mills at Saugerties; his wife being a sister of Mr. Sheffield.

Mrs. Sarah Howe Clark daughter of the late Elmira Horton and Hendrick Howie, and wife of Robert A. Clark, died at her home early Tuesday morning in the 80th year of her age.

She is survived by her husband and two children, Homer and Sada May Clark, both living at Marlborough. Mrs. Clark was an old and highly respected resident. She was born in Dutchess county, and has resided at Marlborough since her marriage. She was a consistent and earnest member of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Herman Bigler died last evening at her home, No. 85 West Union street, after a short illness. Mrs. Bigler was a woman of sterling Christian character, being a life-long member of the Church of the Holy Spirit and Ladies' Aid Society, and leaves a large circle of friends. Interment in Montrose cemetery.

Mercy Townsend Buckley, daughter of the late John and Phoebe Thorne Buckley, died at her late residence, 189 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, on Sunday, in the 95th year of her age. The funeral services were held from Christ Church, Brooklyn, on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. Interment in Christ Church cemetery. Miss Buckley was born in Marlborough in 1824 and many years of her long and peaceful life have been spent at her birth-place. From her youth she has been a devout member of Christ Church. Although advanced in years, Miss Buckley retained her faculties in an unusual degree. It was with deep regret that the residents of Marlborough learned of her passing away.

Walter LeC. Boyer, who was one of the most widely known civil engineers in New York state, and a member of the New York board of water supply for twelve years, died Friday at Lake Placid, where he went about two weeks ago for his health. Some of his best engineering work was done in the Ashokan and Schoharie projects. For ten years he was an expert witness in court in several condemnation proceedings in every large case against the city of New York. He arranged the bureau of claims in Kingston in July, 1912. From 1894 until 1898 he attended the College of the city of New York. From there he went to the New York University and graduated from the school of applied science of that university in June, 1902 with the degree of B. S. In June, 1906, the degree of C. E. was conferred upon him by the New York University. For seven years he was instructor of mathematics in the College of the City of New York. He also did engineering work for the Pennsylvania Railroad, the N. Y. O. & W. and the New York Central. He also did some engineering work on the construction of the Williamsburgh bridge. At one time he assisted in the department of civil and military engineers at the United States Military Academy at West Point. He assisted Colonel G. J. Fieberger in the writing of "Fieberger's Civil Engineering." Mr. Boyer drew one-half of the plates in this book, including bridge designs, aqueous foundations and joints. He stood high in his profession and as a citizen. He possessed a kindly and jovial disposition and made and retained a large circle of friends. He was regarded by his business associates as a man of integrity and sterling principles. He was a member of the Elks, and the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity of the New York University. He is survived by his parents, his daughter, Marion Hall Boyer of New York, and three brothers. The funeral will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock from the home of his parents, 640 Riverside drive, New York city. The interment will be private Tuesday morning in Woodlawn cemetery. A meeting of the members of the New York board of water supply, held Friday, resolutions of grief and respect for Mr. Boyer were put on the minutes.

WAR SAVINGS PLAN SPREADING FAST

Substantial Support From Americans of German Ancestry at Close of Friday Night's Rally—New W. S. S. Societies.

A W. S. S. rally was held Friday evening at the Immanuel Lutheran Church on Livingston street, which resulted in many large subscriptions being received at the close of the meeting.

The Rev. Fred Schroeder, pastor of the church, delivered an address and was followed by Waldo Dunnehan who also spoke. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Postmaster DeWitt. All of the speakers brought out the importance of supporting the government by contributing to the war chest by means of the W. S. S.

At a meeting of the Van Wagenen store organization held Friday, the matter of forming a W. S. S. society was presented by E. R. Alfrod and John M. Cashin. The organization formed a W. S. S. society electing Frank S. Hyatt, president, and Harry Ellsworth, secretary and treasurer.

J. J. O'Reilly of the general committee promptly issued a 100 per cent certificate to the society as it was found that the Van Wagenen employees had already been 100 per cent W. S. S. since the store's anniversary celebration in April which centered around a Thrift Stamp campaign. Each employee at that time was the recipient of a Thrift Card with the first stamp already affixed, and from that small beginning hundreds of dollars worth of stamps and W. S. S. have already been purchased by members of the organization. The salespeople are as active in their efforts to spread the W. S. S. idea among the store's customers as they are among themselves.

The first banner calling upon the citizens of Kingston to buy W. S. S. was hung out at the central post office Friday. The First National Bank and the Ulster County National Bank of this city, the Ellenville National Bank and the Saugerties Bank have also ordered similar banners.

Two new W. S. S. societies were formed Friday: One at the Ramsey piano plant and the other at the Manhattan shirt company.

OVER 800,000 AMERICANS ACROSS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 15.—There are more than 800,000 American overseas.

General Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the United States Army, in letting this fact be known today also explained that the German great objective undoubtedly still is the Channel ports.

Timely warning was given by General March that it was far too early yet to forecast when man power supremacy will favor the Allies.

The general also made it plain that so far as the United States was concerned the only limit that there was to our man power is that which is compromised by the shipping problem. Relative to the ships needed to move men and supplies, the general declared that there will be ample numbers of both to win the war.

Darkness Above the Sky.

The projectile of the gun with which the Germans have been shelling Paris from a distance of seventy-five miles must rise in its trajectory to a height of twenty-four miles above the earth. The Scientific American says it is probable that at that height there is so little air that the sky loses its blue appearance, because there is hardly enough of it to produce the refraction of light which gives it its luminosity.

"If we could accompany this shell on its course," continues the Scientific American, "we should probably find the sky growing darker and darker, until it becomes nearly black. In the black sky the sun would show as a ball of fire, while the stars which were not obliterated by the sun's light would also be visible. Below us we would have the reflection of sunlight from the earth and from the denser strata of the atmosphere."

Can Sleep Anywhere.

A soldier who enlisted and was sent to Houston was sent out to the trenches for training, and while on duty he was granted two hours' rest. He was allowed to sleep on the firing step of the trench, which he said, is nine inches wide. He said when he comes back he will be able to sleep out on the window sill.

Electrons and Atoms.

Atoms are minute particles of matter, each about one-three-hundredth part of an inch in diameter. They are so small that if the earth were made up of baseballs it would be a fair model of a drop of water made up of atoms. The electron is smaller still. It has a diameter of about one-hundredth that of an atom, so that if an atom were represented by a sphere 100 yards in diameter the electron would be about the size of a pin's head. It has been said that the electrons which form an atom can be compared to a swarm of gnats in a cathedral or other large building. As atoms are made up of electrons, so molecules are made up of atoms.

Epilepsy Described in Bible.

In the New Testament there appears to be a very clear description of epilepsy in the case of a child cured by the Savior (St. Matthew, chapter 17, 14-8). Here the text says that the child "oftentimes falleth into the fire and oft into the water."

POULTRY

MEAT SUPPLY FROM POULTRY

Impetive That Productive Stock Be Rather Largely Increased During Current Year.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Meat can be produced from poultry more quickly than from any other source. One of the necessities imposed upon the United States by its entrance into the world war is to produce more meat than it has ever produced before. This is essential not only to meet its own greater needs because of being on a war basis, but also to save the countries with which it co-operates in the war from defeat through lack of food.

Meat is one of the most essential of food products. Of such meats as can be cured and kept in compact form, larger quantities than ever before must be sent to the armies overseas, and the proportion of these exports to the total production in the United States is likely to increase steadily and even rapidly, as larger armed forces from this country are sent to the fighting front in Europe.

In order to leave available for the forces overseas as large a proportion as possible of the output of cured and compact meats, it is desirable that there be a decided increase in both the home production and the home consumption of white meats such as poultry. To that end it is imperative that the productive stock on general farms and in the back yards of the nation be rather largely increased during the current year. It has always been and will always be true that the great bulk of this country's poultry is produced not on specialized poultry farms but in the dooryards and farm lots of the diversified farms. Establishments devoting their attention exclusively to the production of poultry have been and will continue to be of rather large importance, but they can hardly be looked to or any very great part of an emergency increase in production sufficient to constitute a noticeable factor in feeding the world at war. That demand upon the nation's potential production capacity can be met, however, by the farmers and home makers of the country without any sort of strain and with compensation in poultry profits more than commensurate with the outlay of money and effort.

KEEP BROODING COOP CLEAN

Give Chick's Good Overhauling Once a Week—Spray Thoroughly for Mites.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The brood coop should be cleaned at least once a week and kept free from mites. If mites are found in the coop, it should be thoroughly cleaned and sprayed with kerosene oil or crude petroleum. From 1 to 2 inches of sand or dry dirt or a thin layer of straw or fine hay should be spread on the floor of the coop. Brood coops should be moved weekly to fresh ground, preferably where there is new grass. Shade is very essential in rearing chickens, especially during warm weather; therefore, the coops should be placed in the shade whenever possible. A good field makes fine range for young chickens, as the soil cures many bugs and worms and have fresh ground to run on most of the time, due to the cultivation of the ground, and have abundant shade at the same time.

KEROSENE FOR SCALY LEGS

In Short Time After Dipping Scales Will Peel Off—Avoid Wetting the Feathers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If efforts were made to dispose of all hens when their best laying days were over, a large quantity of poultry meat would be placed on the market. All poorly developed chickens should be culled out and sold for meat, also. This would allow the poultry keeper to make the best use of his grain by feeding it to younger and more productive fowls.

PRODUCTIVE FLOCK OF HENS

Fowls Whose Best Laying Days Are Over and Poorly Developed Chickens Should Be Sold.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If efforts were made to dispose of all hens when their best laying days were over, a large quantity of poultry meat would be placed on the market. All poorly developed chickens should be culled out and sold for meat, also. This would allow the poultry keeper to make the best use of his grain by feeding it to younger and more productive fowls.

FLETCHER KNOCKED DOWN FOR A GOAL

Abel Street Excited Friday Afternoon When Mr. Worf Was Knocked Down by Mr. Bank—Accounts Differ as to How It Started.

Friday afternoon Abel street, near Washington Hall, was treated to a little excitement when Fletcher Banks, a negro employed by Abel Vogel, knocked out John Worf, who has a saloon on that street. Accounts as to just what happened differ somewhat.

One version, and that given by Fletcher, was that he had gone to a nearby barbershop to see if it was full as Mr. Vogel wanted to be shaved and did not care to wait long. Fletcher glanced in the barber shop and saw the barber was busy. Mr. Worf was also in the shop waiting his turn.

A little later Mr. Worf came out and it is said that he called Mr. Banks by name.

Later yet Mr. Banks came back, stopped, and asked Mr. Worf the following question:

"Did he ever do anything to you?"

Mr. Worf that you don't call me names?"

"No," Mr. Worf is reported to have replied.

"Don't you go in to do something to you," Mr. Banks is quoted as saying as he swung his mighty right arm.

Mr. Worf's jaw.

Mr. Worf measured his length on the sidewalk.

Still later reports state that Mr. Worf is contemplating calling to see Judge Schirck and having a warrant issued for the arrest of Mr. Banks.

Up to 12 o'clock this morning no warrant had been issued.

STATE AUTO ASSN MEETING.

At Middletown June 26-27. Will Be Well Entertained.

Albany, June 15.—Aside from matters pertaining to the successful prosecution of the great fight of the civilized nations for the freedom of the people, one of the chief topics of discussion at the semi-annual meeting of the New York State Automobile Association at Middletown, June 26-27, will be an important demand that all drivers of automobiles be licensed and pass a satisfactory examination on the rules of the road, at least. Other matters of vital interest to the motorists of the state will be under discussion and definite action decided upon.

The business session will be concluded in one session on the afternoon of the 26th. The entertainment provided by the citizens of Middletown will be of a most interesting and pleasant nature, including a drive through the most beautiful section of New York: an inspection of the British Remount Station, a Goshen drive through Tuxedo Park, and on to Bear Mountain Park, where, at the latter, luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock Thursday, 27, at Bear Mountain Inn, or on the grounds, and addresses delivered by prominent state officials and distinguished guests. After luncheon the long line of automobiles will resume the drive to West Point where, at 5:30, delegates and guests will be permitted to witness a dress parade of the cadets at this great military academy.

Among the invited guests and speakers will be Governor Whitman, Attorney-General Merton F. Lewis, Secretary of State Francis M. Huro, Commissioner of Highways Edwin Dutney, Supt. of State Troopers Maj. George F. Chandler, Commissioner Richard Enright, Public Safety Department, New York city, representatives of Canadian Automobile Association, Canadian soldier speakers and others.

Food Conservation Slogan—Don't stuff your husband, but husband your stuff.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Dried fruits may be stewed and used without the addition of sugar. Prune juice and prune pulp will make a fine sauce for a steamed pudding or for dry cake when steamed, needing no sugar to make it palatable. Dates, figs, as well as raisins, may be used in the same way.

Maple Blane Mince With Nuts.—Heat a quart of milk, add a pinch of salt and stir in four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch which has been moistened with a little cold milk. Stir and cook over hot water for eight minutes or until the starchy taste has been removed. Have ready six tablespoonfuls of shaved maple sugar that has been mixed with one lightly beaten egg. Add this gradually to the hot milk and stir until the sugar is dissolved, but do not boil. Remove from the heat and turn into a pretty mold to harden. Serve unmolded with whipped cream, sweetened with maple syrup and with a half-cupful of pecan meats added.

Banana Marmalade.—Peel half a dozen bananas (three may be under-ripe) and drop them into a cupful of boiling water. Add the juice of two lemons and cook until thick, stirring to prevent burning; this takes ten minutes. Then measure the fruit pulp thus made and add half as much sugar by measure as there is of the pulp. Then cook until of the desired thickness. Less sugar may be used if a thinner jelly is wanted. Pour into glasses and cover as usual. This makes about three cupfuls of marmalade, or four small tumblers.

Add a cupful of cold cooked rice to the middle cake batter; they will be more substantial and it is a good way to use up leftover rice. Even if it is sweetened it is not objectionable.

Barley and Peanut Salad.—Cook the grains of barley after soaking overnight, using one-third of a cupful, add a quarter of a cupful of chopped peanuts, one sweet red pepper, chopped, two large apples and a stalk of celery. Cut the apple and vegetables into narrow strips, mix with heated dressing and serve on heart leaves of lettuce. Put raisins, dates or figs into rice pudding, thus saving on the sugar. Eat more fruits and fresh vegetables, saving fats and meats.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 15, 1918.

The campaign for the suppression of "The Yellow Dog" endorsed by the Mayors' Conference and outlined in another column of The Freeman today may prove to be an effective weapon against an evil that we all know exists and that has been permitted to go on unchecked. Some means should be found for punishing those who circulate untruthful statements, but it is doubtful if the method that seems to work so well when we read of it in a fiction tale will work out as well in real life. If the "Yellow Dog" stories are to be discouraged effectively it would seem that a great deal more judgment should be exercised in the work than is possessed by the average enthusiastic youth. In fiction it is easy to keep the boys from making mistakes that will reflect on their work and cause them to be justly regarded as impertinent nuisances, but when an attempt is made to put the plan in practice it requires no prescient imagination to see troubles ahead unless the boys are very carefully drilled and possessed of intelligence and conservatism to an almost miraculous degree.

One of the first principles of the science of warfare is to properly estimate the power of the enemy. The importance of this is obvious, for if the power of the enemy is underestimated preparation to overcome him is likely to be inadequate, not only in the way of men and materials for the actual fighting force, but in sympathy and groundless self-confidence among their supporters in civil life. For these reasons, one of the most pernicious forms "Yellow Dog" stories assume is predictions of easy victory or an early ending of the war. This was the great weakness of Great Britain in the first year of the war and to a great extent it has been the weakness of our own country. Under the guise of boastful patriotism, adequate preparation in either military or economic lines. Every campaign for funds is not by this sentiment of "What's the use of doing this when the war will be over before the money is needed?" Confidence is an excellent thing, when well founded and when every effort is made to bring about the result desired, but when it tends to slacken effort, boastful over-confidence becomes dangerous. How many zealous, well-meaning boys who enlist in the campaign for the rebuking of "Yellow Dogs" will know where to draw the line?

What will happen "when the boys come home" and in so many instances find women in possession of their jobs? Are the women to hold on—at least pay—and the returned soldiers be driven to seek employment elsewhere? Some observers at home seem to be troubled over this matter, but apparently it is bringing no disquiet to the minds of the men in uniform. The New York Railways Employees' Magazine for May publishes a letter from a soldier in France containing this passage: "I was surprised to learn that women conductors are working on most of the lines and glad to know that they are doing good work. Let us hope that they will continue until the boys return." A letter from a soldier at Camp Wadsworth published in the same magazine contains the following: "I suppose you have quite a few conductors by this time. Well, it is lucky we have some one to take our places when the old flag calls us to duty."

That is all. No alarm or uneasy speculation as to the future, but only satisfaction that their work can be done while they are away in the service of their country. Neither will they find cause for alarm, we may rest assured, when they return. The problem will solve itself. After the war the occupations of women will not doubt continue to be more extended, but no capable man will be shored to the wall. The returned soldier, whose former job is retained by a woman will be enabled by the developing experience of military service to secure something better.

Pististratus is a name of ancient renown, being that of a resourceful person mentioned in the earlier annals of Greece who got control of Athens by dressing up a tall bandsome maid from a village in Attica and palming her off as the goddess Athena and his special friend. But all this is no help or comfort to a Greek-American of the name of Pististratus Pifceally in the Twenty-seventh Engineers at Camp Meade. He complains that young Americans in khaki find in his name an unfailing source of mirth and that in consequence his tribulations are endless. He wants to change it for something less conspicuous, and no wonder.

W. S. S. DRIVE SHOULD REACH ALL

The following admonition is addressed to the chairmen, captains and aides of the War Savings Stamp Drive by William D. Brincker, chairman, Ulster County Committee.

Do not fail to ask everyone within your district to do their bit, whether they be citizen or alien. Aliens and half aliens are enjoying the hospitality and prosperity of this country and their appreciation will be shown by, not what they say, but what they do, in the way of purchasing War Savings Stamps.

The officials of the government will know who the contributors are and those who are not. Be insistent upon everyone doing their share.

Papyrus Still Grows.
When Egypt was overrun with warlike races, there was little interest in literature, and the papyrus plant that grew beside the Nile died out for lack of cultivation. It is still found, however, in marshy ground bordering rivers in Syria, Sicily and other places.

WOMEN'S LAND ARMY OF AMERICA

Now Organizing for Farm Work in Ulster County—You Can Enlist at 44 Main Street.

Miss Helen K. Stevens, representing the Women's Land Army of America, is in this city in the interest of this army. The army is organized to supply girls to do all kinds of farm and field work and Miss Stevens is here to raise funds to equip units of the army in Ulster county. Already one unit of fifteen girls is located at Ridgely Manor, Stone Ridge.

The plan of the Land Army is to form camps or units of strong young women, some of them well versed in farm work, and locate them where they can be available to work on farms. The young women will be provided in such number as may be required and will work eight hours a day for twenty-five cents an hour. They will live in camps or vacant farm buildings and be transported to the farms for work, thus saving the farmer the labor and trouble of caring for them.

The plan has been successful in all sections where it has been inaugurated and the units are flourishing and furnishing help in most of the states of the union. The work has been endorsed by many agricultural societies and has the approval of Secretary Lane, of the Agricultural Department, Washington, D. C. Several units have been formed in New York state and are proving of great help to the farmers.

The headquarters of the army for Ulster county is located at 44 Main street, where all who are interested in the work can make contributions to the cause and obtain information regarding the work. Mrs. Frances Leggett is chairman of the Ulster county organization, and Mrs. Everett Fowler is chairman of the Kingston unit.

The army wants financial aid, automobiles to transport the girls to their work, and also new members. Anyone wanting help to pick berries should make application at the headquarters, 44 Main street, and they will be furnished with willing workers.

CITY HALL DOME

Changes in Water Board Office—Inspector Holstein Resigns—Under New Law Health Board Will Be Busy With Vacation Permits.

Inspector Edgar Holstein of the water board has resigned his job and is now working for the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation on the Island Dock. As yet the water board has appointed no one to fill the vacancy. The job is a civil service one, but the board has the power to make a temporary appointment until an examination is held to make up an eligible list in case the civil service board has none. The job pays $85 a month.

W. Frank Davis, the efficient bookkeeper of the water board, spent his last day in the office of the board today. He resigned recently and the resignation was accepted at the last meeting of the board. He has accepted a position with the Fuller shirt factory and assumes his duties on Monday.

Miss Belle Burger, who has been employed by S. E. Eichmeyer at his dry goods store on lower Broadway, was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Davis's resignation and will assume her new duties on Monday at the city hall.

Friday nine new cases of measles were reported to the health board. This makes over 700 cases reported in Kingston since April 1.

There were no cases in police court this morning.

Under the Cowee act which becomes effective this year the officers of the health board expect to be swamped the last of the month with applications for permits to work during the summer vacation by pupils of the city schools. Under the Cowee act children between the ages of 14 and 16 years will be allowed to work in or in connection with any mercantile establishment or business office, in cities and villages upon obtaining the summer vacation permit from the local health board.

It is expected that about five hundred permits will be sought in the city alone. The permit allows the possessor to work during July and August only, returning to school when school opens after the summer vacation.

Hallock, Russell Hallock, Miss Janet Preston, Justice and Mrs. Northrup, Mrs. Stevens, M. A. Northrup and Prof. I. H. V. Dickinson.

Theron Lyons of Council Bluffs, Iowa, visited his sister, Mrs. J. R. Woolsey, Sr., recently.

Freston Anderson and Miss Viola Koon, of Brooklyn, are spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson on Church street.

Mrs. Marobita and daughter, Miss Josie Marobita, of New York city, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Felice Pantouli.

The six young men, Raymond MacManus, Raymond Sturter, William Hickey, Fred Thiel, James Yosco and Leonard Freer, who enlisted recently left here on Monday on the 12:14 train for New York. They were escorted to the train by members of the State Guard, prominent citizens and relatives and friends in automobiles. Church bells were rung and flags displayed. By offering their services to their country, these young men were thus honored.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Donaldson were in Poughkeepsie Tuesday, attending the funeral of a relative.

Martinelli, the tailor, is back at the old stand, and ready for business.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Patten of New Haven, Conn., visited E. F. Patten and sisters, the Misses Marlon and Jean, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Powell Townsend of Washington, D. C., are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Townsend.

The ordination of the Rev. H. A. Northacker will take place at the Presbyterian Church Monday evening, June 17, at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

The following is taken from a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Felice Pantouli from their son in active service somewhere in France: My Dearest Mother and Father:

Again I'm writing in the best of health, and sincerely hope all at home are the same and that all are happy.

I am getting to like France. French soldiers are very good to us and we are good to them. We go around as brothers. They are well and neatly dressed, but they seem surprised at the amount of clothing we U. S. boys possess. They can't seem to understand it at all.

We are supplied with high top boots, leather vests, wool lined, and lots of useful things to make a soldier feel comfortable. Uncle Sam is certainly looking out for his boys.

I feel pretty tired as I was on guard last night. I was mounted and had a quiet horse, and as he was tired I asked for a fresh one, so the man in charge of the stable picked out a nice mare and asked if I cared to ride her. I said I would be glad to, he laughed and gave her to me. Well, when I tried to tighten the cinch she bucked and kicked. I look at her and laughed, and so I took her back to the man. He said I was afraid of her and said if I wasn't I would ride her. I told him I got her saddled and leaped on. Holy smoke! You ought to see that horse buck and kick and bite at the same time. I put the spurs on her and went like a wheel out of her. Through fields I let her go until she could run no more, then chased back to the stable, took the saddle off and gave her back to the man. Gee! You should see the look on his face, but my back and legs are sore.

There are six to seven thousand horses here. We have some work taking care of them, but we manage to get through early and have time to play ball.

We have moving pictures three times a week, dancing, singing and everything a fellow likes.

I'll close, dear mother and father, with fondest wishes to all my people. Your devoted son,

FRANK.

The spelling match held in the Community House on Wednesday evening was instructive and amusing. Between three and four hundred words were given out by Principal D. M. Warren. The Misses Elizabeth McManus and Julia Conroy chose sides. Twenty-five or so decided to spell, and were spelled down by Mrs. O. P. Kent. Another match is to be held next week.

Our State Guards went to Manchester Range, Dutchess county, for target practise on Thursday.

"Do you think playing a game of pool hurtful or wrong?" asks a young sapshead of Galveston. We think playing a game of pool to be a tireless all right—provided the player has put in a full day's work.—Houston Post.

Daily Thought.

Many men build as cathedrals were built, the part nearest the ground finished; but that part which soars toward heaven, the turrets and the spires, forever incomplete. — Henry Ward Beecher.

First Principles.

The fact disclosed by a survey of the past that majorities have been wrong must not blind us to the complementary fact that majorities have usually not been entirely wrong.—Herbert Spencer.

Franklin Town Cars and Limousines

Where most limousines and town cars represent an "extra car" for a household, the Franklin Limousine and Franklin Town Car can be depended upon to answer every motoring requirement.

BECAUSE these Franklin types are not designed solely for restricted city use, but through light-weight, resilient construction, they are adaptable to open country driving and long trips.

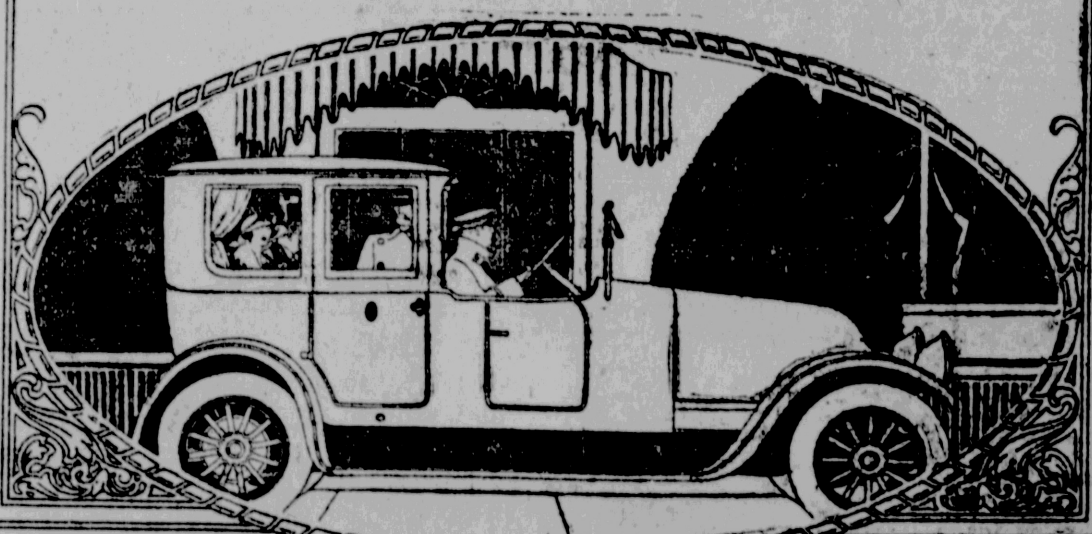

These Franklins you could call enclosed touring cars, for they weigh not as much as the average touring car—only 2610 lbs; between 1500 and 2000 pounds lighter than other fine enclosed cars.

These are times when a family's motor car must prove its worth only by the service it gives.

And the owner of a Franklin Town Car or Limousine will tell you how he is getting real, efficient motor car use that conserves fully half the gasoline and rubber the ordinary limousine or town car consumes.

And at a little more than half the initial investment that heavy pretentious cars of these types involve.

Pythians Present Flag And Board of Public Works Will Purchase Pole—Hasbrouck Avenue Hill to be Paved—To Finish White Paving Here.

At a special meeting of the board of public works held Friday afternoon Scott Van Keuren, superintendent of public works, was authorized to procure a flagpole for Forsyth Park, Franklin Lodge, No. 37, K. of P. will donate a flag.

The board considered a proposal to purchase the benches in the tabernacle to be used in Forsyth Park. Action on this was postponed until the next regular meeting of the board.

Mayor Canfield reported that Commissioner of Highways Duffey had given his approval to the continuation of the White Paving in Kingston, and that Washington had put its O. K. on Mr. Duffey's approval and had given permission to the White Paving to procure enough asphalt for a month's paving here. It is thought that at the end of the month allowed permission will be given to procure enough asphalt to finish the paving program here.

The question of paving Hasbrouck Avenue Hill was discussed at length. In May the superintendent was directed to have a portion of the street paved with granite blocks. He reported at the meeting Friday that the work had been held up because the men whom he would have to use for the work had been kept busy with special and unexpected work, such as repairing walls on Delaware Avenue, Wilbur Avenue, and Green Street, also the hill on West Pierpont Street. This was work which had to be done right away. The superintendent was authorized to procure extra help and to go ahead with the Hasbrouck Avenue paving and make a report of the matter at the next meeting. The matter of the proposed lighting of Forsyth Park was discussed. No definite action was taken.

Practically every member of the auxiliary took part in this movement. A delightful program was rendered, the various numbers, given below, being interspersed with the singing by all present of the modern patriotic and war songs.

Walter LeC. Boyer, who was one of the most widely known civil engineers in New York state, and a member of the New York board of water supply for twelve years, died Friday at Lake Placid, where he went about two weeks ago for his health. Some of his best engineering work was done in the Ashokan and Schoharie projects. For ten years he was an expert witness in hydraulic and general condemnation proceedings in a very large case against the city of New York. He arranged the bureau of claims in Kingston in July, 1912. From 1894 until 1898 he attended the College of the City of New York. From there he went to the New York University and graduated from the school of applied science of that university in June, 1902 with the degree of B. S. In June, 1906, the degree of C. E. was conferred upon him by the New York University. For seven years he was instructor of mathematics in the College of the City of New York. He also did engineering work for the Pennsylvania Railroad, the N. Y. O. & W. and the New York Central. He also did some engineering work on the construction of the Williamsburgh bridge. At one time he was assisted in the department of civil and military engineers at the United States Military Academy at West Point. He assisted Colonel G. J. Fieberger in the writing of "Fieberger's Civil Engineering." Mr. Boyer drew one-half of the plates in this book, including bridge designs, aqueous foundations and joints. He stood high in his profession and as a citizen. He possessed a kindly and jovial disposition and made and retained a large circle of friends. He was regarded by his business associates as a man of integrity and sterling principles. He was a member of the Elks, and the Phi Gamma Delta, fraternity of the New York University. He is survived by his parents, his daughter, Marion Hall Boyer of New York, and three brothers. The funeral will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock from the home of his parents, 540 Riverside Drive, New York City. The interment will be private Tuesday morning in Woodlawn Cemetery. At a meeting of the members of the New York board of water supply, held Friday, resolutions of grief and respect for Mr. Boyer were put on the record.

At a meeting held Friday evening, July 14th, the trustees of the Kingston Savings Bank declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent payable July 1st, 1916.

WAR SAVINGS PLAN SPREADING FAST

Substantial Support From Americans of German Ancestry at Close of Friday Night's Rally—New W. S. Societies.

A W. S. S. rally was held Friday evening at the Immanuel Lutheran Church on Livingston Street, which resulted in many large subscriptions being received at the close of the meeting.

The Rev. Fred Schroeder, pastor of the church, delivered an address and was followed by Waldo Dunneman, who also spoke. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Postmaster DeWitt. All of the speakers brought out the importance of supporting the government by contributing to the war chest by means of the W. S. S.

At a meeting of the Van Wagenen store organization held Friday the matter of forming a W. S. S. society was presented by E. R. Alford and John M. Cashin. The organization formed a W. S. S. society electing Frank S. Hyatt, president, and Harry Ellsworth, secretary and treasurer.

J. J. O'Reilly of the general committee promptly issued a 100 per cent certificate to the new society as it was found that the Van Wagenen employees had already been 100 per cent W. S. S. since the store's anniversary celebration in April which centered around a Thrift Stamp campaign. Each employee at that time was the recipient of a Thrift Card with the first stamp already affixed, and from that small beginning hundreds of dollars worth of stamps and W. S. S. have already been purchased by members of the organization. The salespeople are as active in their efforts to spread the W. S. S. idea among the store's customers as they are among themselves.

The first banner calling upon the citizens of Kingston to buy W. S. S. was hung out at the central post office Friday. The First National Bank and the Clister County National Bank of this city, the Ellenville National Bank and the Saugerties Bank have also ordered similar banners.

Two new W. S. S. societies were formed Friday. One at the Ramsey piano plant and the other at the Manhattan shirt company.

Darkness Above the Sky.

The projectile of the gun with which the Germans have been shelling Paris from a distance of seventy-five miles must rise in its trajectory to a height of twenty-four miles above the earth. The Scientific American says it is probable that at that height there is so little air that the sky loses its blue appearance, because there is hardly enough of it to produce the refraction of light which gives it its luminosity.

"If we could accompany this shell on its course" continues the Scientific American, "we should probably find the sky growing darker and darker, until it becomes nearly black. In the black sky the sun would show as a ball of fire, while the stars which were not obliterated by the sun's light would also be visible. Below us we should have the reflection of sunlight from the earth and from the denser strata of the atmosphere."

Can Sleep Anywhere.

A soldier who enlisted and was sent to Houston was sent out to the trenches for training, and while on duty he was granted two hours' rest. He was allowed to sleep on the firing step of the trench, which he said, is nine inches wide. He said when he comes back he will be able to sleep out on the window sill.

Electrons and Atoms.

Atoms are minute particles of matter, each about one-three-hundredth part of an inch in diameter. They are so small that if the earth were made up of baseballs it would be a fair model of a drop of water made up of atoms. The electron is smaller still. It has a diameter of about one-hundred-thousandth that of an atom, so that if an atom were represented by a sphere 100 yards in diameter, the electron would be about the size of a pin's head. It has been said that the electrons which form an atom can be compared to a swarm of gnats in a cathedral or other large building. As atoms are made up of electrons, so molecules are made up of atoms.

Epilepsy Described in Bible.

In the New Testament there appears to be a very clear description of epilepsy in the case of a child cured by the Savior (St. Matthew, chapter 17, 14-18). Here the text says that the child "oftentimes fallth into the fire and oft into the water."

OVER 800,000 AMERICANS ACROSS

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, June 15.—There are more than 800,000 American overseas.

General Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the United States Army, in letting this fact be known today also explained that the German great objective undoubtedly still is the Channel ports.

Timely warning was given by General March that it was far too early yet to forecast when man power supremacy will favor the Allies.

The general also made it plain that so far as the United States was concerned the only limit that there was to our man power is that which is compromised by the shipping problem. Relative to the ships needed to move men and supplies, the general declared that there will be ample numbers of both to win the war.

POULTRY

MEAT SUPPLY FROM POULTRY

Imperative That Productive Stock Be Rather Largely Increased During Current Year.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Meat can be produced from poultry more quickly than from any other source. One of the necessities imposed upon the United States by its entrance into the world war is to produce more meat than it has ever produced before. This is essential not only to meet its own greater needs because of being on a war basis, but also to save the countries with which it co-operates in the war from defeat through lack of food.

Meat is one of the most essential of food products. Of such meats as can be cured and kept in compact form, larger quantities than ever before must be sent to the armies overseas, and the proportion of these exports to the total production in the United States is likely to increase steadily and even rapidly, as larger armed forces from this country are sent to the fighting front in Europe.

In order to leave available for the forces overseas as large a proportion as possible of the output of cured and compact meats, it is desirable that there be a decided increase in both the home production and the home consumption of white meats such as poultry. To that end it is imperative that the productive stock on general farms and in the back yards of the nation be rather largely increased during the current year. It has always been and will always be true that the great bulk of this country's poultry is produced not on specialized poultry farms but in the dooryards and farm lots of the diversified farms. Establishments devoting their attention exclusively to the production of poultry have been and will continue to be of rather large importance, but they can hardly be looked to or any very great part of an emergency increase in production sufficient to constitute a noticeable factor in feeding the world at war. That demand upon the nation's potential production capacity can be met, however, by the farmers and home makers of the country without any sort of strain and with compensation in poultry profits more than commensurate with the outlay of money and effort.

KEEP BROODING COOP CLEAN

Give Chick's Good Overhauling Once a Week—Spray Thoroughly for Mites.

The brood coop should be cleaned at least once a week and kept free from mites. If mites are found in the coop, it should be thoroughly cleaned and sprayed with kerosene oil or crude petroleum. From 1 to 2 inches of sand or dry dirt or a thin layer of straw or fine hay should be spread on the floor of the coop. Brood coops should be moved weekly to fresh ground, preferably where there is new grass. Shade is very essential in rearing chickens, especially during warm weather; therefore, the coops should be placed in the shade whenever possible. A cornfield makes fine range for young chickens, as they secure many bugs and worms and have fresh ground to run on most of the time, due to the cultivation of the ground, and have abundant shade at the same time.

KEROSENE FOR SCALY LEGS

In Short Time After Dipping Scales Will Peel Off—Avoid Wetting the Feathers.

Here is a simple remedy for scaly legs in fowls; as a rule, one application is sufficient: Take a small, deep can and fill it with kerosene. Dip the feet and legs in it up to the feathers, but do not wet the feathers, and hold them in it a second or two, but not longer. In a short time the scales will peel off and the legs will be in as good condition as though they had never been scaly.

PRODUCTIVE FLOCK OF HENS

Fowls Whose Best Laying Days Are Over and Poorly Developed Chickens Should Be Sold.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If efforts were made to dispose of all hens when their best laying days were over, a large quantity of poultry would be placed on the market. All poorly developed chickens should be culled out and sold for meat, also. This would allow the poultry keeper to make the best use of his grain by feeding it to younger and more productive fowls.

LEE FOHL WAS REAL BOXER AT ONE TIME

Lee Fohl, manager of the Indians, doesn't look like a boxer, fans, but he knows more about the hit and miss art than you think. Lee loves a good boxing bout and has been known to travel a considerable distance to see a mill.

Naturally enough Lee's proteges thought there must be something at the bottom of his love for the ring game, and when a couple of the boys put it up to him he fessed up that he had gone in for the sport in his younger days. Fohl engaged in a number of bouts at Pittsburgh, Homestead and New Kensington, Pa. He still knows how to handle his dukes

(Now Organizing for Farm Work in Ulster County—You Can Enlist at 44 Main Street.)

Miss Helen K. Stevens, representing the Women's Land Army of America, is in this city in the interest of this army. The army is organized to supply girls to do all kinds of farm and field work and Miss Stevens is here to raise funds to equip units of the army in Ulster county. Already one unit of fifteen girls is located at Ridgely Manor, Stone Ridge.

The plan of the Land Army is to form camps or units of strong young women, some of them well versed in farm work, and locate them where they can be available to work on farms. The young women will be provided in such number as may be required and will work eight hours a day for twenty-five cents an hour. They will live in camps or vacant farm buildings and be transported to the farms for work, thus saving the farmer the labor and trouble of caring for them.

The plan has been successful in all sections where it has been inaugurated and the units are flourishing and furnishing help in most of the states of the union. The work has been endorsed by many agricultural societies and has the approval of Secretary Lane, of the Agricultural Department, Washington, D. C. Several units have been formed in New York state and are proving of great help to the farmers.

The headquarters of the army for Ulster county is located at 44 Main street, where all who are interested in the work can make contributions to the cause and obtain information regarding the work. Mrs. Frances Leggett is chairman of the Ulster county organization and Mrs. Everett Fowler is chairman of the Kingston unit.

The army wants financial aid, automobiles to transport the girls to their work, and also new members. Anyone wanting help to pick berries should make application at the headquarters, 44 Main street, and they will be furnished with willing workers.

eligible list in case the civil service board has none. The job pays $85

a month.

W. Frank Davis, the efficient bookkeeper of the water board, spent his

MILTON.

Milton, June 15.—Among those who saw the Gerard pictures at the Academy of Music on Tuesday evening, vividly describing the ambassador's four years in Germany, were: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hallock, Russell Hallock, Miss Janet Preston, Justice and Mrs. Northrip, Mrs. Stevens, M. A. Northrip and Prof. I. H. V. Dickinson.

Theron Lyons of Council Bluffs, Iowa, visited his sister, Mrs. J. R. Woolsey, Sr., recently.

Freston Anderson and Miss Viola Koon, of Brooklyn, are spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson on Church street.

Mrs. Marobita and daughter, Miss Josie Marobita, of New York city, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Felice Pantouli.

The six young men, Raymond MacManus, Raymond Sharkey, William Hickey, Fred Thiel, James Yosco and Leonard Frager, who enlisted recently left here on Monday on the 12:14 train for New York. They were escorted to the train by members of the State Guard, prominent citizens and relatives and friends in automobiles. Church bells were rung and flags displayed. By offering their services to their country, these young men were thus honored.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Donaldson were in Poughkeepsie Tuesday, attending the funeral of a relative.

Matinelli, the tailor, is back at the old stand, and ready for business.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Patten of New Haven, Conn., visited E. F. Patten and sisters, the Misses Marion and Jean, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Powell Townsend of Washington, D. C., are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Townsend.

The ordination of the Rev. H. A. Northacker will take place at the Presbyterian Church Monday evening, June 17, at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

The following is taken from a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Felice Pantouli from their son in active service somewhere in France: My Dearest Mother and Father:

Again I'm writing in the best of health, and sincerely hope all at home are the same and that all are happy.

I am getting to like France. French soldiers are very good to us and we are good to them. We go around as brothers. They are well and neatly dressed, but they seem surprised at the amount of clothing we U. S. boys possess. They can't seem to understand it at all.

We are supplied with high top boots, leather vests, wool lined, and lots of useful things to make a soldier feel comfortable. Uncle Sam is certainly looking out for his boys.

I feel pretty tired as I was on guard last night. I was mounted and had a quiet horse, and as he was tired I asked for a fresh one, so the man in charge of the stable picked out a nice mare and asked if I cared to ride her. I said said I would be glad to; he laughed and gave her to me. Well, when I tried to tighten the cinch she bucked and kicked. I took at her and laughed, and so I took her back to the man.

He said I was afraid of her and said if I wasn't I would ride her. I told him I wasn't and took her. Somehow I got her saddled and leaped on. Holy smoke! You ought to see that horse buck and kick and bite at the same time. I put the spurs on her and went like a wheel out of her. Through fields I let her go until she could run no more, then chased back to the stable, took the saddle on and gave her back to the man. Gee! You should see the look on his face, but my back and legs are sore.

There are six to seven thousand horses here. We have some work taking care of them, but we manage to get through early and have time to play ball.

We have moving pictures three times a week, dancing, singing and everything a fellow likes.

I'll close, dear mother and father, with fondest wishes to all my people. Your devoted son.

The spelling match held in the Community House on Wednesday evening was instructive and amusing. Between three and four hundred words were given out by Principal D. M. Warren. The Misses Elizabeth McManus and Julia Conroy chose sides. Twenty-five or so decided to spell, and were spelled down by Mrs. O. P. Kent. Another match is to be held next week.

Our State Guards went to Manchester Range, Dutchess county, for targeted practice on Thursday.

"Do you think playing a game of pool hurtful or wrong?" asks a young saphead of Galveston. We think playing a game of pool to be entirely all right—provided the player has put in a full day's work.—Houston Post.

Daily Thought.

Many men build as cathedrals were built, the part nearest the ground finished; but that part which soars toward heaven, the turrets and the spires, forever incomplete. — Henry Ward Beecher.

First Principles.

The fact disclosed by a survey of the past that majorities have been wrong must not blind us to the complementary fact that majorities have usually not been entirely wrong.—Herbert Spencer.

Franklin Town Cars and Limousines

Where most limousines and town cars represent an "extra car" for a household, the Franklin Limousine and Franklin Town Car can be depended upon to answer every motoring requirement.

BECAUSE these Franklin types are not designed solely for restricted city use, but through light-weight, resilient construction, they are adaptable to open country driving and long trips.

These Franklins you could call enclosed touring cars, for they weigh not as much as the average touring car—only 2610 lbs; between 1500 and 2000 pounds lighter than other fine enclosed cars.

These are times when a family's motor car must prove its worth only by the service it gives.

And the owner of a Franklin Town Car or Limousine will tell you how he is getting real, efficient motor car use that conserves fully half the gasoline and rubber the ordinary limousine or town car consumes.

And at a little more than half the initial investment that heavy pretentious cars of these types involve.
